EDITORIAL BRIEFS.

BROOKLYN has base ball on Sunday. It has Beecher also.

THE Greeks and Turks are not waging a very destructive warfare.

GEN. JAMES A. BEAVER was the orator in Butler, Pa., on Memorial day.

THE crop of sweet girl graduates is as large and as beautiful as ever.

TALMAGE'S sermon, last Sunday morning on the labor question, was a notable effort.

BEN BUTLER has been asked to defend the anarchists, but replies that he is too busy at present.

CINCINNATI is spending four million dollars in repaving her streets, mostly with granite pavement.

ANDREW CARNEGIE, of Pittsburg, is fast demonstrating himself to be one the most generous men in this country.

GEORGE GALBRAITH, a colored man, has been elected treasurer of the Republican city committee of Harrisburg.

SOME people say that Wednesday is an unfortunate day on which to get married and others say it is the "best day of all."

Now that the President is giving such a boom to matrimony we suppose Ed. Garman will sell more glass and china ware than ever before for wedding presents.

JAEHNE is said to be making a most exemplary convict. Then it wasn't such a bad idea sending him to prison, after all. He never made that kind of a citizen.

THE New Yorkers want Congress to appropriate $106,100 for the expenses of inaugurating the Bartholdi statue It is strange they didn't make it an even $200,000.

AT last the announcement has been given to the public that the President's wedding would occur on Wednesday evening, June 2, and by this time the President is happy.

MISS FOLSOM, the President's bride, evidently admires reporters, as she made one of them the hero of a story she wrote while crossing the Atlantic to this country on the Noorland.

HERR MOST has been convicted of misdemeanor. Is that the most that he can be convicted of? Something that will bring the punishment of hanging would be more satisfactory to the public.

PRINCE JERSME NAPOLEON is coming to America for a visit. If he wants to find a place without royalist frills, where a man can settle down and grow up with the country, this is the country for him.

THE Chicago grand jury has indicted twenty-one of the Anarchists. When they experience the penalties of the law they will hate it worse than ever, but they will respect it more, which is all the community cares for.

WITH decrease of nearly $80,000,000 in exports and an increase of $32,000,000 in imports for the year ending April 30, it does not seem that the trade balances of this country are in a condition to defy criticism or bear fooling with.

THE President journeyed to New York city on Sunday. We won't criticise the President at this happy time for paying so little regard to the proprieties of the day. We hope his bride will teach him to do his traveling on week days hereafter.

THERE is a story going around that Mrs. Folsom once rejected Mr. Cleveland, who is now to marry her daughter. It was the Mayor of Buffalo who then offered himself; now the President of the United States is the suitor, which puts the matter in another light.

CANADIAN antics cannot provoke this great Nation from its propriety. The little Canadian schooner that was caught at Portland for violation of the customs regulations has been relieved of the penalty, the Treasury Department being satisfied that the offense was not intentional.

A Word About School Lots.

Some of our people think the School Board should erect the new school building in the South or West wards or at some point where it would be fairly convenient for both. Others again say that they should build on the lot they now have, while some say that it would be proper to sell part of the old lot and buy new. All these conflicting views are pressed more or less upon the board in turn.

It is nevertheless the duty of the board to do what in their judgment seems best for the people of the district. It is and always will be utterly impossible for the board to please everybody.

A fair look at our town may be of some use. The South ward cannot extend very much if any further south. There is nothing to cause people to go in that direction, nor will it extend further east than it now is. It is true the intervening space between the body of the town and the far out houses on Bishop street will be built up. Our shops, factories and furnaces are extending to the north and west. Of course, the mechanics and working men will seek to have their dwellings as convenient to these as and possible. It is but natural that they should. This being so, the expansion of our population will be toward the North West wards. The North ward extends now beyond Beaver street. Workmen are now building in that direction. The Nail works, located as they are, will, of necessity, cause more to locate in that neighborhood.

The people of the South and West wards seem to think that because the aristocrats of the North ward do not send their children to the public schools, that very few children of the North ward go to the public schools. In this they are in error. The aristocrats of the North ward are a very small fraction of its population, and the truth is the North ward furnishes more children to the public schools than either of the others. Some think that the Board should sell a portion of the old lot and buy new. Surely, the good people of our town would not want that done. The ground will be necessary always as a play ground for the children that go to school there now. More than that, the day may come in the growth of our town when that ground will be absolutely necessary to the people as a park. The men who make most fuss are the men who care least about the schools. They think anything is good enough for the public school children. The Board, in the discharge of its duty should provide a large, commodious, well lighted and perfectly ventilated building for school purposes. A gentleman of our town said in our hearing to-day, "The house of refuge with its incorrigible inmates has better lighted and ventilated rooms than our present public school building." Of course, all these things should be avoided in the new. Let sober, sensible people express themselves on this matter fairly and honestly.

The Way They Feel about It.

There is no more disgusted specimen of the genus homo in existence than the average Democratic politician, and there is no more melancholy individual than a member of the rank and file of the Democratic party. They were frightened when Cleveland was elected and the results which have followed have humiliated them utterly. At least one-half of them will never again have courage to vote for a Democratic President. When we hear the exclamation, "We have not had such hard times since Buchanan was President," no comment is necessary, and mercy leads us not to add to the humiliation of the individual by upbraiding him for voting for Cleveland rather than Blaine. He sees his folly Just to show the tendency of thought on this subject, we quote a letter received from a subscriber of this paper on Saturday. He says:

"Look where you will and you will see many idle men. Ask the cause of their idleness and they say, "There is no work." Is it owing to the change of the administration or the election of a Democratic President? I think that is the fact. The people don't seem to have confidence in the head of the Government. What is a ship worth without a rudder? She cannot be managed. And what is a government worth without good officers? She must go down—down until almost lost in oblivion. If the people haven't enough confidence in the government to invest their money in business, then there must necessarily follow a panic. We are in the very midst of it now, and no one knows what the end will be."

We regret not to be able to give our despairing subscriber any hope at present. He must do his part in future to restore and keep the government in safe hands.

A Search for News.

One of the most interesting events which has occurred in the newspaper world for some time past was the rivalry displayed by the journals to obtain the first reliable news regarding the President's wedding. In this the New York Sun took the lead. Every day a careful watch was kept for the arrival of the Noorland on which the bride was traveling. When a revenue cutter, at night, made its way to the arriving steamer, the Sun's tug with a lynx-eyed, cheeky reporter, on board, followed the cutter and every movement was watched. The occupants of the cutter knew that they were being followed, but could say nothing except, "Bother the reporters!" The reporters could not get an interview with the bride that night, although they saw her and wrote an article regarding her arrival. The date of the wedding was left to her to settle and that important event was announced by all the daily newspapers in the land at the same time, as it was not known until an invitation was given for a few select guests to attend the happy event in the blue room of the White House on Wednesday evening, June 2. The recent death of Miss Folsom's grandfather induced her to name an earlier date than was originally intended and to omit the display which otherwise would have marked the affair. It is thought that there will be no wedding tour at present. We take this opportunity to extend our congratulations to the happy couple.

Presbyterianism and Evolution.

We are pleased to notice that the Presbyterian church, in its General Assembly last week, expressed very sensible views on the subject of "Evolution," refusing to accept it as now taught by some scientists. The following was adopted by the Assembly by a vote of 137 to 13:

To the several overtures on the subject of the evolution of man sent up by the Presbyteries, the General Assembly returns answers as follows:

The Church remains at this time sincerely convinced that the Scriptures, as truly and authoritatively expound in our "Confession of Faith" and Catechism, teach that Adam and Eve were created body and soul by immediate acts of Almighty power, thereby preserving perfect race unity; that Adam's body was directly fashioned by Almighty God without any natural animal parentage of any kind, out of matter previously created of nothing, and that any doctrine at variance therewith is dangerous error inasmuch as by methods of interpreting Scripture which it must demand, and in the consequences which by fair implication it will involve, it will lead to a denial of doctrines fundamental to the faith.

A DEVICE employed by the revenue cutter which took Miss Folsom off the Noordland to keep her arrival dark was to show no lights and in this way she ran up the North river to her pier without attracting any attention. Some of the New York papers who got left on the interesting news are abusing the Captain of the cutter for such a dangerour performance as steaming along a river where craft of all sorts abound without displaying any warning lights. It appears, however, that the regulations permit this when "the special character of the service may require it." This proviso, which has heretofore served to promote the stealthy approach of the cutter upon smugglers and river pirates is now invoked in justification of landing the President's bride with as much secrecy as if she were a bale of smuggled merchandise.

THERE was a pretty and touching tribute to the honored dead out in Orrville, O. Disregarding the date of the legal holiday the people of Orrville determined to decorate their loved ones' graves Sunday in a modest and feeling manner. The regular evening services of the various churches were abandoned and a touching union service held in the city hall. Almost the entire population marched to the cemetery to pay their tribute to the brave men, gone but not forgotten, and to decorate the graves of kindred and friends. Such an observance of Decoration Day in one that appeals to the hearts and best feelings of all.

THE editors of the Keystone Gazette and of the Centre Democrat have a war of words in which the terms "assassin" and "asinine," as applied to the intellect, occur frequently. Once in a while the Watchman "chins" in to add fuel to the fire. But why do our neighbors talk so much about intellect? Our readers can take their choice between "assassin" and "asinine" intellect as applied to any of them. One of the words must be correct, for they are continually a-"sassin" one another. But when you want a genuine brilliant intellect with no such desperate qualities about it take that of the REPUBLICAN.

Memories of Memorial Day.

Yes, they are covered over. Once again the green mounds of the soldiers' graves have been decorated. A nation has discharged a holy duty, and nobly did she perform it. The flowers which beautify the graves will be kept fresh by the tears of widows and orphans, sisters and brothers, many loving relatives. How comforting to know that the humble soldier of the ranks as well as the officer received alike the same token of affection on Memorial day. Nor were the flowers all. What poetry, sentiment and eloquence honored the occasion!

We believe that the exercises of Memorial day were but a portion of the real good that was accomplished. The memory of the good deed will live after the flowers are faded. Children who saw it have the sentiment of hero worship more deeply inculcated in their hearts. They will see the principle which, as the years roll by, gives impulse to the act. The flowers will fade and the bodies of the dead will moulder, but respect for the good and true will spring up in the human heart.

Of course, the veteran soldiers performed the duty with the most affection. Perhaps they paused longest over the freshest graves and deposited the flowers most tenderly thereon. That was but natural. And if the thought impressed them that their graves might be among those to be decorated next year, we cannot think it strange. Grant, Hancock, McDowell and McClellan are among the soldiers to whom we bade farewell during the year. Perhaps other distinguished names will be added to the list next year. Their deaths only tell of hundreds just as brave but less prominent, and who deserve just as large a share of homage. The young people must continue the work when the last participator in the war is gone.

MR. HOLMAN is getting worked up to the fighting point. He has done all he could do to keep his party from running their craft on to the rock, and hoped to persuade them to steer for deep water, but they would not. The result is Mr. Holman is mad all over, and through and through. He says he is at a loss to know "what the condition of the party will be when Congress adjourns. It is an outrage upon the people, and a violation of every pledge made by the party." They have increased the expenditures beyond those of last year altogether, over $23,000,000. Poor Mr. Holman, he is too innocent to live and hold his own in this wicked world, he is sure to go under the waves and not be heard of again if he really expects his party to keep its promises. Where in the world could he have got his elementary education if he does not know that the party is bound to get the boodle no matter what pledges it gives the people?

THE world at large has had rather more than an elegant sufficiency of international expositions in the last ten years, but the French don't care. They purpose to get up a bigger fair in Paris in 1889 than has ever been seen; and if foreigners do not wish to exhibit their inventions or works of art there, all right. The Minister of Commerce of the Republic is sure the leisure population of the world will flock to the French capital to see the show. This is more or less doubtful. Americans, at least, remember how they were swindled in Paris during the other expositions, and they are quite capable of staying away the next time. Forty million francs this undertaking would cost the French. It might not be so dead a loss thus invested as if they should put it in De Lesseps's Panama Canal; but it would not be far behind.

THE Custom-house Inspectors seemed to have been lenient with Miss Folsom's baggage and her Paris finery escaped a tousling up at their hands. Her trunks, which were marked only by two crimson crosses, were promptly sent to the hotel the morning of her arrival. It would have been a pity to ruffle the symmetry or disarrange the metre of that "poem in ivory satin."

THERE seem now to be good propects of passing the Home Rule bill on second reading, and this is solely due to the careful manipulation of Hon. Mr. Gladstone. After passing the second reading the bill will probably rest until another meeting of Parliament. Members elected to the next Parliament on this direct issue will better represent the will of the country.

Our Next President.

Just what advantages for knowing all about it are in the possession of the Baltimore News we cannot say, but it speaks apparently with great certainty when it says: "The next President of the United States will be George W. Childs of Philadelphia if he will accept the nomination. The party which brings him forward will make sure of success for itself, and secure for the country a good President. For in the choice of the next Executive the personal and individual merits of the candidates will enter more largely than ever before; will tower above everything else, and if there is a principle or platform involved it will be based rather upon the labor issue than any other. A discussion of personal merits would put Mr. Childs head and shoulders above any competitor likely to be named, for he has done more good in his day and generation than any other one man on the continent."

It occurs to us that possibly Blaine, or Logan, or Sherman may have something to say on the subject.

Suppose we Annex.

If the advice of the REPUBLICAN a year ago had been followed this government would be better prepared to cope with Canada in the present difficulty. In time of peace prepare for war. Suitable coast defence and an equipment of war vessels should have been built, then we could have treated with Canada with confidence of success.

Sooner or later, no doubt, the United States will be under the necessity of annexing Canada, and a dispute like the present one will afford a timely occasion. With our present facilities for a marine warfare it will be well to proceed with great caution.

THE great decline in the price of silver has started a renewed discussion of the "silver question" in England. The people of India, who have looked on the depreciation of silver with the patience of stoics, have come to some agitation on the subject. Sir Auckland Colvin says that England must adopt bimetallism or all will be lost. This proposition has awakened much feeling in London, where Sir Auckland has been denounced as little better than a fool. He represents people who have grain and other things to sell in India whose profits fall off with each decline in the rupee. The coming discussion promises to be interesting and, perhaps, productive of good.

THE bill imposing a tax on oleomargarine was debated all last week. Does it go at the subject at the right end? Is not the true object to prevent any deception rather than to destroy the manufacture? Is not the right protection for the dairy the enactment of adequate safeguards against palming off the imitation butter as genuine? In a word, should not the bill aim to prevent fraud and not to increase it through the evasion of a tax?

M. PASTEUR has achieved an important victory in securing the approbation of the British Hydrophobia Commission. Cable dispatches indicate that the approval is hearty and unreserved, as to the soundness of his inductions and the value of his discovery, though M Pasteur himself would probably be the first to urge that further experiments and investigations will doubtless vastly increase the usefulness of his method.

THE prospects for Maxwell's body going to the dissecting table for purposes dissimilar to those which led to the dissection of his victim's remains, improve as the days go by. About the whole matter of the causes which led up to the famous murder, may be summed up in Maxwell's desire for money to maintain the style of life he started out to lead when he took passage for this country.

THE anxious inquirer concerning the respective ages of the happy pair who were united in wedlock at the White House last evening, is informed that Grover Cleveland was born March 18th, 1837, and Miss Frank Folsom July 21st, 1864. The President is therefore, in his fiftieth year, and his bride is nearly twenty-two. May they live until she is eighty and he one hundred and eight.

KING LUDWIG, of Bavaria, in his lunacy, has shut himself up, refuses to see his Ministers, and communicates only with them through his hair dresser. This artist and quasi Minister of State must be related to the barber that leads the textile manufacturers of Philadelphia in their demand for free trade in wool.

GENERAL NOTES.

An important discovery of gold is reported at Kimberly, Australia.

Several people at Merced, Cal., have been prostrated by the heat this season.

A wooden dish manufactory at Mancelona, Mich., ships a carload of dishes a day.

A load of wood has been sold at St. Johns, Mich., for 25 cents, and another for 30 cents.

The West Greenbush, Mich., postoffice has a new name, and will hereafter be known as "Mikado."

The New Jersey Prohibition Convention nominated Gen. Clinton Fisk for Governor by acclamation.

The Mayor of Girard, Kan., has ordered all dogs shot that are found unmuzzled on the streets of that city.

Uncle Sam welcomes into his domain from Maine to Alaska 3 200 babies a day, not counting those who come by sea.

Seven sweet girls of Pleasant Lake, Mich., have organized a cornet band and have been serenading Jackson people.

The House of Representatives at the evening session Friday passed twenty-five private pension bills and adjourned till Monday.

The vicinity of Lapeer, Mich., was visited by a terrific whirlwind on Thursday night and much damage done to property. No loss of life is reported.

Lightning struck four large ice houses at Dundee, a few miles from Paterson, N. J., recently, and did damage to the amount of from $5 000 to $6 000

At Kent, Ohio, Thursday, Mrs. W. S. Kent, wife of a prominent citizen, was so severely burned that she died. Her clothing caught fire from a stove.

Forty-seven hosiery manufacturers of Philadelphia, employing over 12,000 men, have organized for mutual protection, as the result of the recent demands of the employes.

Antonio Nardello was hung at the jail in the District of Columbia Friday for the murder of Carmine Rosano. He made a speech on the scaffold and protested his innocence.

The Labor Committee of the House of Representatives will report favorably a bill authorizing the incorporation of trades unions in the Territories and the District of Columbia.

Charles W. Mackey, of Franklin, has signified his willingness to accept the Republican nomination for Congress, as also has L. F. Watson, of Warren county. A lively time is anticipated at the coming primaries this week

A newsboy fell in the streets of New Haven, the other day, and remained insensible or several hours. It was ascertained that it was a case of nicotine poisoning from cigarette smoking, and physicians believe he is still in a critical condition.

The morning after the flood in Tippecanoe county, Ind., a hen turkey was found dead sitting on a nest of eggs She was attempting to hatch, having been literally drowned by the rainfall. She could have saved herself by hopping upon the limbs of a tree over her head.

A year ago one of a pair of canaries owned by a young woman of Waynesboro, Ga., died, and its mate, an excellent singer, refused to whistle a note. It maintained an unbroken silence for full 12 months, and then the other day be an singing, and now is a really remarkable songster.

The Moors make extensive use of a spirit prepared from the water in which comb is boiled in treating beeswax. The water, being impregnated with honey, is allowed to ferment, and is then distilled; the spirit is called maharya. It is flavored with anise seed or with naffa—that is, fennel acid.

An old lantern, now among the curiosities collected in the National Museum, was first used on the dome of the Capitol at Washington. The copper ball which was 10 or 15 feet above it is also preserved there, and it shows the marks of the lightning's wrath expended upon it. There are five holes in it, made by the lightning's heat.

The Boston Traveller says that at a recent wedding near Boston the bride entered on her uncle's arm, and was met at the church by the groom. The uncle then retired in good order, took his seat in the body of the church, and when the clergyman asked, "who giveth this woman," &c, arose in his place and loudly and emphatically said "Me."

The English Church papers express a great deal of disgust at the apostasy of Dhuleep Singh. He was brought up under the influence of Her Majesty's Court, and lived like a nobleman in Suffolk; but he has failed financially and started for India, announcing to the Sikhs his renunciation of Christianity and acceptance of the worship of the god of Sutguru.

One of the most notable private entertainments that has recently been given in New York City, though a quiet and unostentatious affair, took place Friday evening at the residence of Hon. Levi P. Morton, ex-Minister to France, in honor of Gen. Schofield, who recently assumed command of the military district A number of the most prominent citizens were present.

A lady who is the owner of property valued at between £400 and £800 a year has applied to the Kilkenny (Ireland) Out-door Relief Bureau for assistance. She said that she was ashamed to apply for aid, but was unable to obtain her rents' and only asked for a shilling a week for a few months. It is stated that the members of the Board, who are all Nationalists, refused to grant her request, but offered an order admitting her to the work-house.

MY LOST LOVE.

There was a star, old legends say, that shone
From out of Eastern sk es on one dark night,
Which for three days, with strange and brilliant light,
Illumined all the world, and then was gone.*

Such is my dear lost love to me. Oh, none
Can know but I with how much beauty bright
She first beamed on me setting true and right
My soul, discordant with the world's sad tone.

She stayed scarce long enough to let me know
Whether she was of heaven or earth the bloom;
But 'mid her sweet resplendence vanished so
That I now like a blind man in a tomb
Veil and of awful space a-wondering go,
Pursuing shapes of her in taunting gloom.

*There was a star discovered by Tycho Brahe, who lived from 1 46 to .60, which appeared suddenly in the heavens, attained a brilliancy surpassing that of Jupiter, then as suddenly disappeared and has never been seen since.

HE NEVER TOLD A LIE.

Once there was a little boy,
With curly hair and pleasant eye—
A boy who always told the truth,
And never, never told a lie.

And when he trotted off to school
The children all around would cry,
"There goes the curly-headed boy—
The boy who never tells a lie."

And everybody loved him so,
Because he always told the truth;
But every day he grew up,
'Twas said, "There goes the honest youth."

And when the people that stood near
Would turn to ask the reason why,
The answer would be always this,
"Because he never told a lie."

DANDELION.

A dandelion in a meadow grew,
Among the waving grass and cowslips yellow;
Dining on Sunshine, breakfasting on dew—
He was a right contented little fellow.

Each morn his golden head he lifted straight
To catch the first sweet breath of coming day;
Each evening closed his sleepy eyes, to wait
Until the long, dark night should pass away.

One afternoon, in sad, unquiet mood,
I passed beside this tiny, bright faced flower,
And begged that he would tell me, if he could,
The secret of his joy through sun and shower.

He looked at me with open eyes and said:
"I know the sun is somewhere shining clear;
And when I cannot see him overhead,
I try to be a little sun, right here!"

Our Story Teller.

ART AND NATURE.

"La, me!" said Aunt Mellissa, putting on her spectacles, "how you have spruced up, to be sure."

"I never saw such a change in any one in all my born days!" said Mrs. Perry.

They were both right. Alfred Perry had changed marvelously in the brief two years that he had been a New York lawyer. The rustic sunburn had faded away from his cheek, a long silky mustache graced his upper lip and his hair, curled and scented, was brushed away from his well-developed forehead.

"What will Annette say!" ejaculated Aunt Melissa. "I've a great mind to send right up to Squire Dawson's and let her know you've got home!"

But any such proceeding was rendered unnecessary by the opening of the door and the unexpected apparition of Miss Annette Dawson's blooming self

"Why, here she is now!" said Mrs. Perry.

"Yes, here she is," sparkled Annette, and dropping from her apron a tangle of wild flowers, fern plumes, and feathery grasses, she ran up to the new arrival and stood on tip-toe to kiss him.

"Oh, Fred, how glad I am to see you—and how funny your new mustache does feel!"

She was radiantly pretty, with dewy-hazel eyes, curling silky hair blown over her temples, and a tiny rosebud mouth.

Mr. Perry winced a little.

"You are so abrupt, Annette——"

"Not Annette, Fred. Have you forgotten the dear old name "Nanny?"

Apparently he paid no heed to what she said; he was earnestly scrutinizing the dimpled, roseflushed face.

"Child, how frightfully sunburned you are—and what an unbecoming color that lilac is—just exactly the sort of calico dress that every chambermaid wears!"

"Don't you like it?" said Nancy, a little discomfited. "But, Fred——"

"Not so loud, it really startles one. Sit down, Annette—not on the edge of the table, child—how very different your manners are from what I have been accustomed to. Here is a chair."

Nancy Dawson subsided into the cushioned seat, pouting. Evidently her fiancee had come back marvelously changed, and Nancy wasn't altogether certain that she liked the transformation.

She listened to his smooth talk—it was very attractive, yet it was not the old Fred. He spoke of operas, soirees, evening gatherings, and to Nancy it seemed as if he had passed into another world since the day on which, standing beneath the holly tree in the woods, he plighted his troth to her.

"I wish you could have the advantage of a season in New York, Annette," he said. "You have no idea how much it would improve you!"

Nanny looked suddenly up, with a red stain on her cheek.

"Don't you like me as I am, Alfred?',

"There! what a quick-tempered little puss it is!" he said, pulling the silken head. "Of course, I like you, Nan; but you see you're a diamond in the rough—you need polishing."

"You never said so in the old times, Alfred."

"Because, my dear, my standard has been raised since those same 'old times.'"

"Fred, I wish you had never gone away from Stansdale."

He laughed in the superior, patronizing way that she so much disliked.

But Nanny Dawson went home and cried herself to sleep that night.

The two weeks of her lover's sojourn among his native hills and dales were anything but pleasant to the little village beauty. Everything she did or said or wore seemed to provoke criticism from Alfred Perry; and one day, in a burst of passionate tears, she cried out:

"What would you have me do, Fred?"

"Ex-actly," said Mr. Perry, daintily whisking off the head of a tall buttercup with his ivory-headed cane. "Now you ask me the question, I think a few months with Mrs. Gordon Trevallian in Philadelphia would give your manners the finishing touch which they certainly lack now."

"Well, Fred, I will go to this Mrs. Gordon Trevallian and try to become—"

"A little more like other people," laughingly interrupted Mr. Perry.

And Nanny bit her lip and mutely accepted the amendment.

And when he had taken his departure to New York Annette Dawson packed the trunk, kissed her father and mother good-by, and started for Philadelphia to be civilized according to rule and plummet of the far-famed Mrs Gordon Trevallian.

Almost before they began to note the progress of time the year rolled round again to the June roses, and the sunny meadow slopes were all crimsoned with the fragrant flush of the wild strawberries.

"Nanny's letters grow rather stiff of late, it seems to me," pondered Mr. Perry, the evening before he started for home on his annual vacation, "and I don't know that I like so many French phrases and hackneyed quotations sprinkled through them. Heigho! One gets very tired of the monotony and formality of city society. I'm not sorry, on the whole, that I am going back to Stansdale and little, unsophisticated Nanny Dawson."

Stansdale was as sweet and as sylvan as ever—the honeysuckles as sweet as of old, and Alfred Perry drew a long breath of relief as he sat on the old fashioned porch.

"How pleasant this is!" he exclaimed aloud. "But I should think Nanny would have been down to see me before this."

"We don't call her Nanny now," said Aunt Melissa, with a little contraction of the brows. "She'd rather be called Miss Minette 'Taint noways likely she'll come down, neither—she's a dreadful hand for what the fine folks calls 'etiquette' nowadays!"

"Nonsense!" said Perry.

"That's just what I say myself. But that Feladelfy school made another gal of Nanny."

Alfred looked discomfited. The next day he walked up to Squire Dawson's stately red brick house and inquired for Nanny.

"She might have met me at the door," he thought, as he remembered that the sitting-room window commanded a view of the road.

Ten minutes he sat in the parlor, drearily waiting before the door opened and Nanny appeared.

Not the old, impulsive Nanny with crimson cheeks and sparkling eyes, who would have rushed into his arms with a cry of delight, but a tall, graceful young lady in an irreproachable toilet of white muslin and fluttering ribbons, who curtesied low, and touched his hand with the extreme tips of her fingers.

"Nanny!" he faltered aghast.

"I am very glad to see you, Alfred," she said, calmly.

"One would scarcely suppose it from your manner," he said, with some pique.

"Mrs. Gordon Trevallian says that impulsiveness is near akin to vulgarity."

Alfred winced.

"Nanny, will you come for a little walk with me? I can't say a word sitting up here in this stiff fashion."

"Not in this broiling sunshine?" Mrs. Gordon Trevallian says our complexions should be our first care."

"Nonsense!" ejaculated Mr. Perry.

"Pray, Alfred, spare my feelings. Excitement is so—so very pronounce! Mrs Gordon Trevallian is of opinion—"

"Hang Mrs. Gordon Trevallian and her opinions!" blurted out the incensed lover.

"Alfred!"

"Well, I mean it!" persisted Mr. Perry, springing to his feet and striding angrily up and down the room "She has made a—a mere machine out of you—she has spoiled you—yes, completely spoiled you!"

"Dear me!" said Nanny, opening her eyes very wide. "Surely you cannot take exception to my manners. Mrs. Gordon Trevallain declares I am the most promising pupil she has—and it has been my careful study for the last twelve months to repress all the undue impulsiveness to which you properly objected."

"I was an idiot," burst in Alfred "A fool—an unmitigated blockhead!"

He sat contemplating Nanny as one might look upon the cold perfection of a lifeless statue. It was Nanny, and yet not Nanny! His own doings yet, how infinitely repulsive to him—and as he thought of all the bright freshness and vivacity that he had deliberately put away from him, his head drooped on his hands, and something very like a sob burst from the laboring depths of his breast,

"Fred! Darling Fred!"

He looked up with a start—it was the old, thrilling voice again. Nanny was kneeling at his side, heedless of crumpled ribbons or crushed muslin, her eyes shining up into his face.

"My darling!" he exclaimed, "I hate Mrs. Gordon Trevallian as badly as you do—and, in spite of her prison-house, I am Nanny Dawson still! Tell me that you love me, Fred! Tell me that you like me just as I am!"

"I wouldn't exchange you!" cried Fred, enthusiastically, "for all the society belles in creation! I've made a donkey of myself, and you are the dearest little tactician in the world to prove to me what a wretched fool I should have been could I had my own way."

A Royal Wedding.

A dispatch from Lisbon Portugal, May 25, says: The Princess Amelie d'Orleans and the Prince Royal of Portugal were married this morning in that city with the most elaborate ceremony. The event which was consummated to-day is generally understood in court circles of Europe to be one of those varieties of royal alliances denominated "a genuine love match," and has been the talk of fashionable circles throughout Europe for months past. A part from the gossip which is naturally created by such an event, the union has caused no end of stir in diplomatic circles. Six months ago a connection by marriage between the Royal family of Portugal and that of the Orleanist Pretender would have been considered out of the question, but in this case, as in many others, it is the unexpected which has happened, and in years to come the full importance of the union may be realized to a greater extent than now appears on the surface

The bride, Princess Marie Amelia Louise Helen d'Orleans, is the eldest daughter of the Compte de Paris. She was born twenty-one years ago at Twickenham, England, when her parents were exiled by Louis Napoleon. Her complexion is fair, her features regular, and she is vavacious, affable and unaffected These, however comprise all of her charms, for she is not by any means a beautiful girl. She stands six feet in her stocking feet, and is gaunt and bony. Her neck is scrawny and her arms are like the piston rods of a steam engine. Her hands are large and ill shaped, and realizing this she is perpetually trying to get them out of sight. Her dowry, however, amounts, thanks to the liberality of her uncle the Duc d'Aumale, to no less a sum than ten millions francs, and a smaller fortune than this might reasonably be expected to cover a multitude of imperfections of shape and form. Charles Ferdinand Louis Marie Victor Michel Raphael, Gabriel, Gonzague Xavier Francois d'Assise Joseph Simon de Braganza, Savoy, Bourbon Saxe Coburg Gotha Duc de Braganza, heir to the throne of Portugal, is 23 years of age, red headed, with blue Saxon eyes, cherry red lips, pink and white complexion, large mouth and a good natured air. Intellectually he is dull and stupid, and the knowledge that he may in the future be called upon to play a great part in Iberian politics does not seem to spur his ambition to make himself something more of a nonentity than he is. He would rather clink glasses with a subaltern than participate in a council of State and he has been known to fall asleep on his horse while his royal parents were reviewing the troops and the air was filled with patriotic huzzas. Hence he is not popular and the King of Portugal had to "lobby" so desperately to secure a marriage portion that all Europe was set a grinning. Then the King and Queen of Italy and other equally notable personages declined to attend the wedding, and altogether the courtship has been something of a rocky road. The bride's family, however, has done all that it could to lend eclat to the occasion, and accompanied by a number of members of the royalist aristocracy in France, they made the journey to Lisbon in royal state.

It is said that the wedding dress of the Princess served as a model for the one made for Miss Folsom, President Cleveland's bride to be It was of white silk, with a lace marriage veil, simple, but exquisitely made and thoroughly graceful. But the most magnificent costume ordered for the occasion was that worn by the Queen of Portugal It was of sky blue velvet, with rich Louis Trenze embroidery, and covered with cascades of pearls and sheaf like clusters of diamonds. A royal blue sovereign's coronation mantle, embroidered with massive silver wreaths on an azure ground, hung from her shoulders. Its cost exclusive of the lace, diamonds and pearls was 300 000 francs. The gloves were of cream-colored kid reaching to the shoulders, and the manchette of each embroidered with the royal initials. The Countesse de Paris wore a magnificent red velvet, the front studded with dazzling white jet and an immense train of Genoese velvet.

How Women must Work.

Baltimore American.

In the first biennial report of industrial statistics and information of Maryland, prepared by Thomas C. Weeks, there is the following article on the clothing trade:

"I estimate the number of hands employed in the various branches of the cothing trade to be 16.000, two thirds of which number are females This estimate includes shirt, cuff and collar makers, milliners, dress and cloak makers, and tailors, tailoresses and seamstresses. To determine the actual number engaged would require a sufficient staff of enumerators to visit all the byways of the great city, to enter all the work rooms hidden away in corners, to go into the toiling places of extreme poverty, where task masters, who receive the work from the great stores, manufacture it at high pressure, for the lowest possible pay, by poor female labor. It would be necessary to visit homes where the whole family slaves at this industry, and to pry into solitary chambers where, in the late hours of the night, women ply the needle and thread in their struggle for life.

"There must be no misunderstanding this section of the report. I repeat that men, women and children engaged in the tailoring, shirt-making and cheap clothing trade are universally underpaid and overworked. Prices have been so recklessly cut that between 1884 and 1885 there has been a falling off in many of the rates paid of over twenty-five per cent. A tailor, working on 'store' work, with a woman to help him, by working an average of fourteen hours per day, can make $12 per week for ten months in the year. As a practical illustration of female industry in this department I here submit the return made to one of the 'blanks' issued by the Bureau. It is not an exception among those returned by women:

"Blank 437—'I am thirty-seven years of age, married, but a widow. I support myself, and have five children depending on me. It costs me $5 per week to live—that is, it would cost, but I have done with less than $1.50. I rent a house. I work eighteen hours per day, and earn from $3 to $5 per week. I receive $1 10 to $1 15 per dozen pair for making pantaloons."

"It is on woman's shoulders that the burden of the clothing trade rests, not on the men, and it is more so in the cheap "slop" clothing trade than in the custom work. Women working on custom work can earn $1 per day but they cannot procure this employment more than five months in the year. At other times, they work for ready-made clothing houses, earning from fifty to seventy-five cents per day. A day's work is about twelve hours, although fourteen and eighteen hours is not an unusual task for sewing women to perform and call a day's work. For 'finishing off' custom pantaloons women are paid $1 50 per dozen. For making alpaca coats, $2 per dozen to 20 and 30 cents each, according to quality of garment. A woman can make from three to four pair of the latter kind in a long day's work. The season runs from October to May. For linen pataloons women are paid 8 to 12½ cents per pair. For custom pants, 65 cents per pair—one and a half per day. 'Slop' pants, 12 to 35 cents per pair—four pair per day. For vests, 18 to 20 cents each—three vests per day.

"One half the work done 'at home' is carried on in the dense, close atmosphere of small tenements, and poor light, bad air, long hours and indifferent food stamp the female labor engaged in this industry with all the marks of wasting toil and disease. My experience of this trade is that there is more misfortune, hard work and misery in its lower branches than in the majority of other industries I have examined, and that it is less seen and less realized, because it is buried out of sight in the privacy of the working people's homes. Factory labor is far better than this work. That comes under rules and regulations, can be made amenable to law; but the work toiled over in the retirement of the home is known only in all its hardships to the parties engaged, and is beyond the scrutiny of the public."

In the Kentucky Mountains.

Straight, slim, angular, white bodies; average or even unusual stature, without great muscular robustness; features regular and colorless, unanimated but intelligent, in the men sometimes fierce, and in the women often sad; among the latter occasional beauty of a pure Greek type; manner shy and deferential, but kind and fearless; eyes with a slow, long look of mild inquiry, or of general listlessness, or of unconscious and unaccountable melancholy; the key of life a low minor strain, losing itself in reverie; voices monotonous in intonation; movements uninformed by nervousness—these are characteristics of the Kentucky mountaineers. Living to-day as their forefathers lived before them a hundred years ago; hearing little of the world, caring nothing for it; responding feebly to the influences of civilization near the highways of travel in and around the towns, and latterly along the lines of railway communication, but sure to live here, if uninvaded and unaroused, in the same condition for a hundred or more years to come; utterly lacking the spirit of development from within; utterly devoid of any sympathy with that boundless and ungovernable activity which is carrying the Saxon race in America from one State to another, whether better or worse. The origin of these people, the relation they sustain to the different population of the central region—in fine, an account of them from the date of their settling in these mountains to the present time, when, as it seems, they are on the point of losing their isolation, and with it their distinctiveness—would imprison phases of life and character valuable alike to the special history of this country and to the general history of the human mind. The land in these mountains is all claimed, but it is probably not all covered by actual patent. As evidence, a company has been formed to speculate in lands not secured by title. The old careless way of marking off boundaries by going from tree to tree, by partly surveying and partly guessing, explains the present uncertainty. Many own land by right of occupancy, there being no other claim. The great body of the people live on and cultivate little patches which they either own or hold free or pay rent for with a third of the crop. They not unfrequently get together and trade farms as they would horses, no deed being executed. There is among them a middle element—squatters—who make a hill-side clearing and live on it as long as it remains productive, when they move elsewhere This accounts for the presence throughout the country of abandoned cabins around which a dense new forest growth is springing up. Leaving out of consideration the few instances of substantial prosperity, the most of the people are abjectly poor, and they appear to have no sense of accumulation. The main crops raised on the patch are corn and potatoes. By the scant gardens will be seen little patches of cotton, sorghum and tobacco; flax also, though less than formerly. Many make insufficient preparation for winter, laying up no meat, but buying a piece of bacon now and then, and paying for it by working. In some regions the great problem of life is to raise two dollars and a half during the year for county taxes. Being pauper counties, they are exempt from taxation. Jury fees are highly esteemed and much sought after.

A Difficult Task.

"Has anything been discovered yet that will bring the dead to life?" asked the Snake Editor.

"Not that I know of; why?" said the Horse Editor.

'O, nothing, only I see that efforts are about to be made in various States to revive the Greenback party."

The Reason was Sufficient.

Judge—"On what grounds do you ask a divorce from your husband?"

Lady—"He has base ball fever, your Honor, and——"

Judge—"That is enough. A decree shall issue immediately."

—There was considerable frost on Saturday morning between 4 and 5 o'clock. The mercury marked 36 deg.

All Sorts.

A man seeing the sign "Hands off," innocently asked if they had gone on a picnic.

Butter, butter, nice and fair; how I wonder what you are. Are you really what you seem? Were you made of greese, or cream?

"Look here, judge," said the burglar, "I ain't so bad as you think I am. Only give me time and I'll reform." And the judge gave him fifteen years.

A little boy whose sprained wrist had been relieved by bathing in whisky surprised his mother by asking: "Did papa ever sprain his throat when he was a boy?"

An Indiana baby, born during a terrible storm, has been named Cyclonis. His father says the appellation is a misnomer. A cyclone doesn't howl every night.

Minister—"Now, my young friends, you live in the country. Does the Bible say anything to farmers?" Jack Hayseed—"Yes, sir, St. Paul devoted two books to Timothy alone."

The collar girls at Troy have struck. Considering that the collars now in fashion are so much higher than the compensation for making them, we can't say that we blame the young ladies for feeling dissatisfied.

One of the circuses now on the road boasts of a horse that walks the tight rope. The circus horse is becoming so highly educated that the time may not be far distant when it will assume the character of the clown, and essay to get off jokes of the paleozoic age. Then the audience as well as the trick mules would kick.

"It is wonderful what progress missionary work has made in China," observed Mrs. Snaggs. "Yes," replied her husband, "it has made great progress; but to what particular instance of that progress do you refer?" "Why it has not been very many years since we began to send missionaries there, and now the Chinese have sent a minister to this country."

A Milwaukee lawyer, who is a strong temperance advocate, saw at one of the news-stands a paper called the American Bar, and, being alive to everything pertaining to his profession, purchased a copy without noticing that it was "devoted to the interest of the wine, spirit and beer trade" He tried to induce the agent to trade back, but it was no go.

A traveler stopping at a frontier hotel exclaimed one morning to the waiter: "What are you about, you black rascal! You have roused me twice from my sleep by telling me breakfast was ready, and now you are attempting to strip off the bedclothes. What do you mean?" "Why," replied Pompey, "if you isn't goin' to git up I must hab de sheet anyhow, for dey's waitin' for the table-cloff."

A native of "Down East," descanting with characteristic exaggeration on the remarkable qualities of guano as a promoter of vegetation, said that soon after planting cucumber seeds the dirt began to fly and the vines came up like a streak, and although he started off at the top of his speed, the vines overtook and covered him. And on taking out his knife to cut "the darned things," he found a large cucumber going to seed in his pocket!

A somewhat sarcastic exchange says: "The journeymen plumbers, in a number of cities, have struck for eight hours of work. They ought to get it. The average journeyman plumber can do more mischief in eight hours than the average householder can repair in eight days. The plumber can, in eight hours of vigorous effort, spoil enough carpets, drop enough melted solder on waxed floors, and create enough havoc generally to satisfy the most exacting. If the plumber should strike for six hours, the public would be with him. The public is not interested in the size of the diamond worn by his boss; it only wants to get rid of the plumber as soon as possible."

FOR THE BLOOD
BROWN'S IRON BITTERS
TRADE MARK QUALITY P PURITY TRADE MARK
Combining IRON with PURE VEGETABLE TONICS, quickly and completely CLEANSES and ENRICHES THE BLOOD. Quickens the action of the Liver and Kidneys. Clears the complexion, makes the skin smooth. It does not injure the teeth, cause headache, or produce constipation—ALL OTHER IRON MEDICINES DO.
Physicians and Druggists everywhere recommend it.

Dr. N. S. Ruggles, of Marion, Mass., says: "I recommend Brown's Iron Bitters as a valuable tonic for enriching the blood, and removing all dyspeptic symptoms. It does not hurt the teeth."

Dr. R. M. Pellell, Reynolds, Ind., says: "I have prescribed Brown's Iron Bitters in cases of anæmia and blood diseases, also when a tonic was needed, and it has proved thoroughly satisfactory."

Mr. Wm. Byrne, 26 St. Mary St., New Orleans, La., says: "Brown's Iron Bitters relieved me in a case of blood poisoning, and I heartily commend it to those needing a blood purifier.

Mr. W. W. Morgan, Tuscumbia, Ala., says: "I have been troubled from childhood with Impure Blood and eruption on my face—two bottles of Brown's Iron Bitters effected a perfect cure. I cannot speak too highly of this valuable medicine."

How's Your Liver?

Is the Oriental salutation, knowing that good health cannot exist without a healthy Liver. When the Liver is torpid the Bowels are sluggish and constipated, the food lies in the stomach undigested, poisoning the blood; frequent headache ensues; a feeling of lassitude, despondency and nervousness indicate how the whole system is deranged. Simmons Liver Regulator has been the means of restoring more people to health and happiness by giving them a healthy Liver than any agency known on earth. It acts with extraordinary power and efficacy.

NEVER BEEN DISAPPOINTED.

As a general family remedy for Dyspepsia, Torpid Liver, Constipation, etc., I hardly ever use anything else, and have never been disappointed in the effect produced; it seems to be almost a perfect cure for all diseases of the Stomach and Bowels.

The Next Great Entertainment.

On Tuesday evening, June 15, the ladies and gentlemen of the Lutheran church and their friends will give a musical and elocutionary entertainment in Humes' Hall. Long and careful practice for this concert have resulted in the preparation of several musical gems which will be highly appreciated. To say that Miss Ohnmacht has charge of the music is sufficient to prove its excellence. But it is also our pleasure to announce that Miss Grove, of the State College, who is a young lady of superior vocal abilities, will also take part.

The elocutionary part will, of course, be rendered by Rev. Chas. Steck. He will give a few selections from Shakespeare, in which a large proportion of the Bellefonte public have long been eager to hear him. Now, that their desires are to be gratified we can with confidence predict that every seat in Humes' Hall will be engaged long before the entertainment occurs. The tickets will soon be for sale

—Mr. John A. Daley, of Curtin township, secured a large collection of Indian curiosities while in the West, which he brought home with him. He also encountered part of the great storm which prostrated a school house and other buildings in Kansas City. He and a companion were riding in a buggy at the time. He describes the wind as so furious that their vehicle rested on only two wheels most of the time and the gentlemen (Mr. Daley is a heavy weight, you know) had to throw their avoirdupois on the side which was elevated from the ground to prevent it capsizing. He says that he will go through fire battles rather than one such storm any time he has his choice between them

—On Monday evening, May 24, about 9 o'clock, a bolt of lightning struck a walnut tree within 27 feet of the residence of Mr. N. Bierly of Boggs township, damaging it considerably. Mr. Bierly and his family were greatly alarmed, but when roll was called, immediately after the stroke fell, all were found safe and sound. They say the electricity came too close for comfort that time and believe that with lightning as with many other things in this world distance lends enchantment to the view.

—Evangelist D. H. Burwell usually gives unique titles to his addresses. For instance, his opening address, Tuesday evening, May 25, was "Divided we stand, united we fall." Some people supposed he had made a mistake, but he quickly convinced them of the contrary.

—The streets of Philipsburg are to be lighted by seventeen electric lights at a cost of $1500 per year. That's more than it costs to light the streets of Bellefonte.

—Any one might know by the large number of base ball players joining the Knights of Labor that the organization is opposed to going out on strikes.

—Of all the physicians in Bellefonte, it is said that there is only one "ministering angel" among them. Who is he?

Wit Saved Him.

A brigade was encamped near Charleston, Va., says Allen F. Hall, in the Grand Army Sentinel, and a guard had been detailed to protect the property of the citizens in the neighborhood and strict orders given against foraging or taking anything without paying for it. The colonel of one of the regiments was out one day with his staff and all of a sudden he came upon a private of his regiment with a sheep on his back, evidently just killed. He rode up to the soldier and asked him: "Where did you get that sheep?"

He answered: "Up here in the field."

"Did you buy him?"

"No, sir; I just killed him so."

"Why, don't you know that strict orders have been issued against doing anything like that?"

"Yes, sir, I know it, and will tell you how it was. I was going along the road whistling the 'Star Spangled Banner,' and this sheep held up his head and looked straight at me, and said, 'ba-a, ba-a,' and, sir, I up and killed him, as I wont allow anything to say 'ba-a' at me when I'm singing the 'Star Spangled Banner.'"

It is needless to say the colonel told him to go ahead. The fellow's wit saved him that time.

A Dainty Appetite.

He was sitting at the breakfast table yesterday morning and he was warm. The waiter had just taken his order.

"Won't you have some flannel cakes this mawin', boss? Dey's mighty nice," said the sable ganymede.

"No waiter; not this morning," he replied with exquisite suavity, wiping the perspiration from his brow with the table cloth; "but, waiter, if you can bring me some linen cakes or cotton cakes, I will be under obligations to you."

A resident of Augusta, Me., "prominently known in educational circles," waxed so wroth at the spectacle of the British sparrows devouring his cherries that he bombarded them with all the missels on which he could lay his hands, including his false teeth.

The President's Wedding.

NEW YORK, May 30.—Breakfast was served to-day in the Folsom suite of rooms at the Gilsey house at 9.30 a. m. After breakfast Mr. Benjamin Folsom said his cousin had entirely recovered from the fatigue of her ocean voyage. It had been announced that Miss Folsom would attend service to-day at Dr. Hamilton's church, but she remained indoors. General Sheridan called and was received. Miss Folsom will witness the decoration day parade from a private house. She will accompany the naval squadron up the Hudson to Riverside in the afternoon in a revenue cutter.

It is believed that the President may take a wedding trip of a few days the latter part of next week. Colonel Lamont says he has no knowledge of the President's intentions, but the under clerks in the White House are looking forward to a short vacation. Mr Cleveland if he chooses can make a short run down the Potomac to Fortress Monroe either in the Dolphin or Tallapoosa or aboard one of the many private steam yachts that have been placed at his disposal.

Among his callers Saturday were Senators Hearst, Fair, Van Wyck, and Jones of Arkansas; Representatives Collins, Randolf, McKenna and Negley and Secretary Endicott. Mr. Hearst introduced Miss Head, a young lady from California, and Mr. Cleveland remarked that the journey from the Pacific coast to Washington was a long one for such a young person to make. She replied that the journey was one that she felt sure the President would enjoy, and the Senator expressed the hope that Mr. Cleveland would visit California with his bride.

"Well, you know, another person will have something to say about that," responded the President.

"Oh, I am sure a lady would like the trip quite as much as yourself, Mr. President," said Miss Head, and Mr. Cleveland replied doubtfully that he didn't know.

WASHINGTON, May 30.—The President, accompanied by Secretary Lamar, postmaster general, and Mrs. Vilas and Mrs. Lamont, left for New York this afternoon.

To be Excluded.

WASHINGTON, May 31.—It is said at the white house this evening that Miss Folsom is expected to arrive in Washington with her mother and cousin some time on Wednesday and that the party will go to the white house immediately upon their arrival in this city. The arrangements heretofore outlined for securing privacy at the wedding will be strictly adhered to. In addition to the president and his bride and the members of the cabinet and their wives the only persons who will be present at the ceremonies are Mrs Hoyt and Miss Cleveland, Mrs. Folsom, Mr. Benjamin Folsom, and possibly two or three other relatives of the bride. Mr. Wilson Bissell, the president's former law partner; Miss Nelson, of Albany, an old friend of the Cleveland family, Dr. and Mrs. Byron Sunderland and Colonel and Mrs. Lamont, about 25 persons in all. It has been definitely determined that no newspaper correspondents or reporters can be admitted on this occasion. It is nevertheless authoratively promised that an accurate description of the wedding will be furnished the press from the white house.

Demands of the Knights.

CLEVELAND, May 31.—The committee on legislation appointed by the Knights of Labor Convention presented the following proposition in the nature of demands of congress, which were ratified by the convention.

First.—That patents for the public lands be given to actual settlers only.

Second.—That all land owned by any individual or corporation in excess of 160 acres, whether improved or unimproved, shall be taxed to the full value of improved lands.

Third.—Calling for the immediate forfeiture of all lands where the conditions of grant have not been complied with.

Fourth.—Asking that patents on lands where the conditions have been complied with be issued forthwith, so that taxation may take effect at once.

Fifth.—Calling for the removal of fences from the public domain.

Sixth.—That after 1890 the government shall by purchase and right of eminent domain obtain possession of all lands now held by aliens.

Seventh.—That after 1886 aliens shall be prohibited from acquiring titles to lands.

Eighth.—Asking the abolition of all laws requiring a property qualification for voters.

Ninth.—Requesting the passage of a law levying a graduated income tax.

Tenth.—Protesting against the cutting down of the appropriation for the labor bureau.

Eleventh.—Asking for the passage of the bills approved by the congressional labor committee.

Twelfth.—Asking for the passage of a law prohibiting the employment in mines, shops, factories, etc., of miners for more than eight hours per day.

Strength of the Ulster Army.

LONDON, May 31.—The Pall Mall Gazette to-day publishes an article which purports to give the details of the Orange army which is being organized for the purpose of resisting home rule in Ireland in the event of the passage of Mr. Gladstone's bill. The Gazette describes the army of action and the forces which are to form the reserves and places the total for both at 73,571 men, comprising infantry, cavalry, artillery, engineers and rifles. The Gazette admits that this is possibly only a paper army, but still it is an ugly reminder of the possible and ugly risks which are involved in the course of the ministry. The Gazette urges the government to take instant action, as it is doubtful whether the British army would act in compelling Ulster to submit to Parnell.

Canada Speaks Out.

MONTREAL, June 1.—The real cause of all the fisheries troubles is the deep-rooted jealousy of the Canadians against the Americans. Last night the subject of war was discussed at the clubs. A prominent member of Parliament, who is a strong supporter of the government, speaking on the subject, said: "There will be no half-way about the speedy settlement of this question. We shall force it upon the state to declare whether they will keep their fishing vessels out of our waters or whether we shall send them to the bottom."

Being asked what course would be pursued by the Canadian cruisers if they met with armed resistance, the minister of marine declared that Canada will take the consequences, and in case of resistance, the officers commanding the different cruisers have orders to shoot the vessel out of the water. England is at Canada's back.

The Canadian fisheries employ 59,593 men, 1 177 vessels, worth $2,021,033, and 28 472 boats, worth $852 257. The industry produces $18 000 000 per year, of which nearly $8 000 000 is in exports, the United States taking $3,660 731. The total cost to the Canadian government of protecting the industry is less than $154 000 per year.

In the Senate and House.

WASHINGTON, June 1.—In the senate to day Mr. Plumb offered a resolution, which was referred to the judiciary committee, directing that committee to investigate the charge that the Union Pacific railroad company had issued a large amount of fraudulent stock and bonds, which are still out standing. The bill to prevent the acquisition of real property was passed. A motion to lay on the table a motion to strike from the bankruptcy bill all the sections that provide for involuntary proceedings in bankruptcy was defeated and the bill went over until to-morrow.

The house adjourned without a final action on the oleomargarine bill. The motion to strike out the taxing section was overwhelmingly rejected.

The Trial of General Shaler.

NEW YORK, June 1.—General Alexander Shaler was in the mayor's office to day to stand his trial on the charges of complicity in connection with the armory site purchase which were presented against him by Mayor Grace immediately after the disagreement of his jury a month ago.

His counsel asked for an adjournment, and upon the mayor refusing the request he entered a demurrer to the whole proceedings saying the facts did not present a case which authorizes the mayor to remove General Shaler, or criticize his official action whatever. The corporation counsel thereupon agreed to an adjournment, and the mayor set the case down for Monday next.

Important Movement of the Czar of Russia.

LONDON, June 1.—A dispatch from St. Petersburg states that the czar has ordered a meeting of the imperial council to be held at the palace in St Petersburg one week from to-day. The reason for giving such a long notice is that many of the generals who form part of the council are on duty at remote parts of the empire, in Europe and Asia, and need time to reach the capitol. There is great curiosity in all diplomatic circles to know the cause of this summons of all the czar's most prominent counsellors and various theories are afloat. It is known that the czar is quite ready to fight for territorial advantage at the expense of Turkey if he can only find a casus belli. He has watched the Turco-Grecian entanglement with anxious interest, hoping to find some place where he could plausibly interfere in favor of Greece. But there was no point at which he could have struck a blow for Greece which would not equally hit all the powers which were coercing her. If he could have found some valid reason for invading Bulgaria he would most effectually have struck Turkey and at the same time aided Greece.

The Southern Drought.

NEW ORLEANS, June 1.—A Times Democrat Shreveport special says: "Drought still prevails here, and complaints are coming in of its prevalence in all quarters of the surrounding country. In the back lands of the rivers the soil is cracked to an extent that it is impossible to work the crops which really need cultivation. The cotton crop in this locality is in excess of last year, but much depends on an early rain. Planters from the hill country report the soil badly baked and vegetation of all kinds burning up. Under the most favorable circumstances the corn crop in this section will reach only something over half of last year's yield, and the oat crop about one quarter.

The Bell Patent Wins.

NEW ORLEANS, June 1.—The United States Court Judges Pardee and Billings sitting enbanc, decided the case of the American Bell Telephone Company vs. the National Improved Telephone Company yesterday. The Bell Company applied to the court for an injunction to prohibit the National Improvement Company from infringing its patents. The case was on trial here for several months, and the matter was taken under advisement by the Court. The National Company was organized here, and has been in operation about a year, erecting telephone wires and placing instruments in many offices. The Bell company brought suit, with the result of a decision which sustains the Bell patent.

Nailers and Heaters Meet.

PITTSBURG, May 31.—The convention of the United Nailers and Heaters of America, was called to order by Vice President Stevens, of this city, at 2 o'clock this afternoon. Thirty delegates were present. The afternoon was taken up with the presentation of credentials and effecting an organization.

Death of John Kelley.

NEW YORK, June 1.—John Kelly died at 3:20 this afternoon. Kelly had been ill for seven months. During the last few weeks he seemed to feel comparatively well, but on Sunday last he was taken with an attack of fainting and became weaker afterward. Monday he was worse, but this morning an improvement was apparent. At noon however he began to sink and the approach of death was realized. Mr Kelly's death was painless, although he was conscious to the last. Only Mrs. Kelly and her two children were present when the patient passed away. Mrs. Kelly was prostrated by the blow, and is too ill to see anybody. No funeral arrangements have as yet been made.

Broad Top Miners Go on a Strike.

HUNTINGDON, Pa., June 1.—All the soft coal miners in the Broad Top region struck again this morning, with the exception of those in the Robert Hare Powell mines, owing to a reduction of from 50 cents to 40 cents a ton—the price agreed upon at the conference in Clearfield last week. The men also object to the pay for what is known as "dead work," which includes the logging of the mine, making shafts etc. About one thousand men are out. The men will hold a meeting to-morrow to decide upon some definite course to be pursued.

Fishing Contrary to Law.

CEDAR KEYS, Fla., May 31.—The revenue cutter Dedd, Captain Fingar, arrived in port last evening with the Spanish fishing smack Chlotilde, which she captured off Anclote Key, this state, for violating the fishing laws by fishing within three leagues of the American shore and irregularities on her papers.

Mr. Phelps was Indisposed.

LONDON, May 31.—United States Minister Phelps' absence from the state banquet given in honor of the sixty seventh anniversary of the birth of Queen Victoria on Saturday, is explained by the fact that Mr. Phelps was slightly indisposed.

Briefs.

NEW YORK, June 1.—Wilson S. Bissell, President Cleveland's former law partner, called upon Miss Folsom at the Gilsey house to-day and spent half an hour in conversation with her. He said he should accompany Miss Folsom and her mother to Washington this evening. He also said that President Cleveland and his bride would soon take a trip to Europe. The date of their departure, however, he could not say. It was his intention, he said, to accompany them abroad. The trip will probably be made, he added, just after congress adjourns.

BOSTON, June 1.—A Halifax special to the Herald says the schooner Sisters, which was seized at Portland for violating the United States custom laws and released on Saturday evening, arrived at Yarmouth last night. The captain of a coaster just arrived reports that the Houlette has seized an American mackerel fisherman off the Guysboro coast. No particulars.

WASHINGTON, June 1.—The public debt was decreased $8,828,565 during May.

PENSACOLA, Fla., June 1.—A fire which originated in a low gambling dive early this morning, burned thirty building. The loss is $60,000. The walls of several buildings were thrown down by exploding powder. One hundred people are burned out of homes. The streets adjacent to the burned district are filled with homeless people, household goods and merchandise.

INDIANA, Pa., June 1.—Peoples flouring mill was burned this afternoon together with two hundred bushels of wheat. Loss $6,000.

ADDITIONAL LOCAL NEWS.

W. C. T. U. Resolutions.

We are requested to publish the following resolutions adopted by the recent convention of the Centre County W. C. T. U.:

WHEREAS, In the providence of God the convention of the W. C. T. U. of Centre county has been permitted to sit once more; therefore,

Resolved, 1st. That the members of this convention, recognizing that their call is from God, desire to express the conviction of their utter dependence upon the Lord for all their needed supplies of wisdom and strength.

Resolved, 2d. Since it is easier to prevent than to cure, we urge the importance of teaching our youth the principles of total abstinence.

Resolved, 3d. That no legislation can make that right which is in itself wrong; that we do hereby protest against the legalizing of the liquor traffic, and call upon our women to petition, to pray and to work, and the men to vote until rum no longer rules.

Resolved, 4th. That we urge upon physicians the greatest caution in prescribing the use of alcohol in their practice.

Resolved, 5th. That we urge the unions here represented to labor earnestly for the enforcement of the Scientific Temperance Law in our schools.

Resolved, 6th. That the unions encourage the organization of Y. W. C. T. U. work.

Resolved, 7th. That we make constitutional prohibition a special plan of work for the coming year.

Resolved, 8th. That we extend our hearty thanks to the ministers, to the officers of the Y. M. C. A. and to all other friends who contributed in any way to the success of the convention and of our public meetings at the Rink.

One of Judge Mayer's Decisions.

An important decision, says the Lock Haven Democrat, was announced Monday by the Supreme Court of this State affirming the decision of Judge Mayer in an action by certain stockholders against the Rochester & Pittsburg railroad company et al, which was a bill in equity filed in Elk county and which was heard before Judge Mayer in Philadelphia. Eminent counsel both in Philadelphia and New York were concerned.

The cause involved new and intricate legal questions, important among which was the question of the jurisdiction of the New York Supreme Court over railroad property and effects in Pennsylvania, in proceedings in New York based upon a mortgage upon property in New York and Pennsylvania, which mortgage was held by Judge Mayer to be contrary to the Constitution of Pennsylvania and therefore void from public policy. Judge Mayer appointed Tatlow Jackson, Esq., receiver of the part of Rochester & Pittsburg railroad, situated in Pennsylvania. Mr. Jackson took possession, and of course will now continue to hold. We cannot give a complete history of the case now, but we doubt not it will rank prominently among the important causes in this State because of the new questions involved. The result is a great compliment to the high legal ability of Judge Mayer and stamps him as eminently fitted and qualified for judicial office.

Disciples Quarterly Meeting.

The Disciples of Christ, of Centre, Clinton and Lycoming counties, Pa., will hold their quarterly meeting with the Church of Christ at Howard, Centre Co., Pa., June 11, 12 and 13, 1886.

The following programme will be carried out: Friday, June 11, preaching at 8 p. m., subject, "What is included in the gospel of Christ?" by J. O. Cutts; Saturday, June 12, morning session, 9 to 10 a. m., select reading; 10 to 11 a. m., "The character, qualification and work of a preacher of the Gospel," by W. H. Rosser; 11 to 12 a. m., "Discipline, what it is, and its real purpose among the Disciples of Christ," by S. B. CHURCH AT HOWARD.

An Item of Borough Expenses.

The expenses of keeping the paupers and the poor house of Bellefonte for the months of March, April and May are reported to us by the overseer, Mr. James Schofield, to be $599.65.

He desires us also to state that the following provisions were found in the poor house when he took possession on the 25th of March, 1886:

1 ham (smoked)	$1 25
4 shoulders "	4 00
2 lbs bacon "	16
4 pieces meat	3
8 bushel potatoes	2 80
4 gals lard	1 75
5½ sacks flour	6 9
6 lbs sugar	48
2 packages coffee	34
1 box extract coffee	5
4 lbs sauerkraut	20
½ peck onions	10
½ gal molasses	25
1 small jar grape butter	25
1 bottle catsup	10
2 quarts vinegar	16
Total value	$19 14

Officers Elected.

The W. C. T. U., at their recent county convention, elected the following officers for the ensuing year:

President, Mrs. John P. Harris, of Bellefonte.

Corresponding Secretary, Mrs. E. M. Blanchard, of Bellefonte.

Recording Secretary, Mrs St. Clair, of Unionville.

Treasurer, Miss Harriet Wilson, of Stormstown.

On Monday evening the "Kismet" club elected officers, as follows:

President, D. B. Bell.

Vice President, A. Scott Harris.

Secretary, W. F. Harris.

Treasurer, George B. Johnston.

Trustees, J. H. Green, E. C. Cook, Jno M. Bullock, Harris Mann and Harry Bush.

—Apropos of the strawberry season the following recipe for strawberry shortcake will be of interest to our lady readers: Three eggs, one cupfull of sugar, two of flour, one tablespoonful of butter, one scant teaspoon of cream of tartar, one small half-teaspoon of soda. Beat butter and sugar together. Add the eggs well beaten. Mix soda and cream of tartar with the flour and rub this through a sieve over the mixture. Bake in four deep tin plates. Mix three pints of strawberries with a half pint of sugar. Spread a layer of strawberries on one hot cake, lay a second cake over this and cover the top with berries. Whipped cream or the white of one egg beaten with a tablespoonful of sugar may cover the upper berries, as you choose.

—Because of the absence from town of some members of the committee, it was again found necessary, Tuesday evening, to postpone the time for opening the proposals for the erection of a new school building.

SPECIAL MENTION.

The Daily Experience of Every One is that neglect of the bowels is the prime cause of ill health. Testimony of the late Chief Justice of Georgia: "I have used Simmons Liver Regulator for constipation of my bowels caused by a temporary derangement of the liver, for the last three or four years, and always when used according to directions with decided benefit. I think it is a good medicine for the derangement of the liver, at least such has been my personal experience in the use of it."

HIRAM WARNER,
Chief Justice of Georgia.

—Mr. Charles McClure, in a letter, under date of May 21, from Pasadena, Cal., to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harvey McClure, in this place, writes: "I came down here (Pasadena) to-day and spent a short time with Doctor and Mrs. Hayes. You cannot imagine how glad I was to see them. Linn Harris is also here, but I have not seen him yet. Expect to see him soon. I saw Mr. Prondfoot yesterday in Los Angeles. He looks well for a man of his age. I am going back to my ranche to-morrow."

—All admirers of horse flesh and all who desire to improve their stock will be interested in an advertisement of the Chestnut Ridge Stock Farm, by Wm. and Jas. I. Thompson, to be found in this paper. It is something new and long wished for in Centre county, and we have no doubt that wise horsemen will be quick to take advantage of it.

—We have not heard any special reports regarding the M. E. festival on Friday and Saturday evenings, but the information that about $90 was realized by it convinces us that the young ladies and strawberries were never better than on that occasion.

EVERY FARMER SHOULD HAVE our Farmers' Hand Book, every merchant our Merchants' Manual, every lady our Ladies' Book, every lover of music our Mikado. The above, with ten picture cards, will be sent, postpaid, to any address, on receipt of sixteen cents in stamps. R. H. McDonald Drug Co., 532 Washington St., New York.

—The steam heating works closed on Monday for the season and the Summer will be spent in making repairs and putting in new connections.

S. B. Durfey, mate of steamer Arizona, had his foot badly jammed. Thomas' Eclectric Oil cured it. Nothing equal to it for quick pain reliever.

—The temperature was cool enough Tuesdak to send the mercury almost to the freezing point.

All our New Woolens for the Spring and Summer season—1886—just received. Leave your order now. MONTGOMERY & Co., Tailors.

—William McFarland, an 86-year old citizen of Hollidaysburg, died last Friday night.

The warmer weather often has a depressing and debilitating effect. Hood's Sarsaparilla overcomes all languor and lassitude.

BAKING POWDER

Absolutely Pure.

This powder never varies. A marvel of purity, strength and wholesomeness. More economical than the ordinary kinds, and cannot be sold in competition with the multitude of low test, short weight, alum or phosphate powders. Sold only in cans. ROYAL BAKING POWDER Co., 106 Wall St., N. Y. 18 17 1y

—Two of our citizens went down to their native place, Salona, Clinton county, to help the people there celebrate Decoration day. The Lock Haven Express thus records what they did: "The first speaker was Col. Daniel Hastings of Bellefonte, who occupied just twenty-four minutes in the delivery of a strong, graceful, well-prepared address that pleased all. The second speaker was the Hon. Judge Furst, who, standing amid the graves of his own dead, and alike with Col. Hastings, amid the scenes of his own boyhood, delivered a most sensible and patriotic speech which moved all hearts and made deep impressions upon most minds. The third speaker was Chaplain M. Cookman Brittain (also well known here) who, inside of twenty minutes, reviewed the causes of the war—its results, and then wove in the flowers, giving their language and applying their meaning to the virtues and heroic deeds and immortal remains of the patriotic dead."

—On East Curtin street, on Tuesday afternoon, a desperate encounter occurred between five ladies and a small snake. We do not know that the snake exhibited a peculiarly belligerent disposition, but the ladies did. They challenged the snake to battle, and armed themselves with stones and sticks which they propelled with telling effect toward the four points of the compass, striking the snake about once in ten minntes. They supplemented these weapons with sundry screams which re-echoed among the neighboring hills. The battle was prolonged about three hours with varying degrees of success, but at length the ladies came off victorious. The snake was about six inches in length.

—The "Kismet" club—a social organization of young men of this place—is mentioned in another column, and has often been referred to before. It not may be generally known that the real meaning of that word is "fate." It is a Turkish word. The club is in a prosperous condition, has handsomely furnished rooms in the Watchman building and occasionally invites lady and gentlemen friends to enjoy its hospitality. On such occasions the ladies spell the word, "Kis-me," and the only "fate" they care for is to receive another invitation to a Kismet club social soon in the future.

—To morrow (June 3) will be what is known in the church calendar as Ascension day, occurring just forty days after Easter, the intervening period marking the forty days which our Saviour spent on earth before his ascension to heaven.

—Capt. Montgomery says there are ripe cherries on the trees in his lot. Some people affect to disbelieve the Captain, and the best plan for him is to show the cherries.

—We have not heard of any Bellefonte citizen who attended the wedding last evening in the White House.

He Did the Part to Perfection.

"Now," said the bride, "Henry, I want you to understand distinctly that I do not wish to be taken for a bride. I am going to behave exactly as if I were an old married woman. So, dearest, do not think me cold and unloving, if I treat you very practically when there is anybody by."

"I don't believe I can pass for an old married man. I am so fond of you that I am bound to show it. I am sure to give the snap away."

"No, you mustn't. It's easy enough. And I insist that you behave just like old married men do. Do you hear?"

"Well, darling, I'll try, but I know I will not succeed."

The first evening of their arrival the bride retired to her chamber and the groom fell in with a poker party, with whom he sat playing cards until four o'clock in the morning. His wife spent the weary hours waiting. At last he turned up and met his grief stricken bride with the hilarious question:

"Well, ain't I doing the old married like a daisy?"

She never referred to the subject again, and everybody knew after that that they had just been married.

It would appear that Colonel Henry Watterson was unjustly suspected of taking the star-eyed goddess of reform to Europe. The star-eyed one must be at the old stand, looking five ways for reform, judging by the following from the Courier Journal: "Some of the Pennsylvania Democrats have at last joined the Democratic party. If they had come in a few years ago that dratted 80,000 Pennsylvania Blaine majority would never have happened."

An up-town youngster had some little trouble with another youngster about his own age, and being very conscientious, and not daring to wish any one dead, merely remarked, "I wish there never had been a birth in your father's family.

The interior of the Valley Mills, at Grand Rapids, Mich., gave way Friday under the heavy weight on the floors, 20,000 bushels of wheat and 30 tons of bran, besides valuable machinery, being precipitated to the basement or out into Grand river. The loss is estimated at from $80,000 to $100,000.

Medical.

THE WONDER

Is becoming universal as to how such an immense sale could be created in Lowell for HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA. But, my friend, if you could stand behind our counter a week and hear what those say who are using it, the reason would appear as clear as the noon-day sun. The real curative power of HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA demonstrates itself in every case where our directions are faithfully regarded. We would that we might get before the people a fractional part of the confidence that is expressed to us every day in this medicine by those who have carefully noted (without prejudice) its effects upon the blood and through that upon the whole system, stimulating all the functions of the body to perform the duties nature requires of them. Try a bottle and satisfy yourself.

Cold Hands and Feet.

LOWELL, Feb. 3, 1879.

MESSRS. C. I. HOOD & CO.: Gentlemen—About one year ago my daughter commenced taking your Sarsaparilla. At that time she had very little appetite; could take no long walks, and her face was badly broken out with a humor. She was low-spirited; troubled with cold hands and feet; her blood seemed to be poor, and she was in a condition which caused us great anxiety. After taking one bottle of your Sarsaparilla she began to improve; and she now has a good appetite and can take much longer walks. Her humor is nothing compared with what it was one year ago. She is in better spirits, is not troubled with cold hands and feet as previously. And I attribute this improvement in her condition largely to your Sarsaparilla. She has taken six bottles, and intends to continue its use. I was inclined to oppose the trial of it at first. I now have great faith in it as a blood purifier. Very truly yours,

Express themselves as being well pleased with our

NEW SYSTEM OF DOING BUSINESS,

And as we are also pleased it is not likely that we shall ever do a

Big Profit and Long Credit

BUSINESS AGAIN.

Our terms are Cash, and positively no over thirty days to responsible parties.

Any farmer that is worthy of credit can borrow money at 6 per cent. and then pay the merchant cash, and save at least 20 per cent., and then if you buy goods at a cash store you don't pay for another man's credit. We have proven beyond question that you can save money by paying cash. A credit store can talk about selling their CASH CUSTOMERS cheap, but they can't do it, and a person with ordinary intelligence knows they can't, and any one that don't know why they can't, we can enlighten them upon the subject. Our experiment has been a success; who knows it better than our customers? We have a Large and Complete Stock for the SPRING TRADE.

The K. of L. Convention.

CLEVELAND, May 26.—The Knights of Labor were up late last night and in consequence it was rather late this morning before they were astir. A call for convention was issued by Powderly. He only enumerated five causes of complaint that were to be adjusted. These were: Boycotts, strikes, the Southwest troubles, the relation of the Knights of Labor to other organizations, and the instituting of new assemblies. Since the delegates have arrived many of them have plans that they would like to spring upon the special session. Whether these will be discussed or laid upon the table can not be determined, as yet. One of these plans is to agitate the subject of the Government regulating the railroads. A member of the order from Allegheny, Pa, has prepared a long address upon this subject, and the delegates from this district will try to secure a hearing for him. The gentleman's address also deals with the project of national arbitration boards. Another matter was made public by free discussion this morning. For some time past the Executive Board has not been satisfied with some of the organizers of orders, and several have had charges preferred against them and their commissions recalled; a number of organizers are not giving satisfaction; so, to prevent hard feeling by removing these men, it is proposed to have the commission of every organizer, from the Chief down, recalled.

Maxwell on the Stand.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., May 26.—Long before the time for opening the proceedings of the Criminal Court arrived this morning crowds of men and women anxious to hear the opening of the defense in the Maxwell case and the testimony of the defendant, had collected around the Four Courts. All the space around the door of the Criminal Court room was occupied, the corridors and passageways were packed with curious would-be spectators, and there were many standing on the steps and sidewalks who were unable to gain an entrance even to the building.

The deputies appeared at 9 o'clock, and with difficulty forced their way through the throng and opened the doors. A rush for seats and standing room followed, and the wildest disorder prevailed for a time. All who were able to enter did so, but there was a large majority who were forced to remain outside, every available foot of space being occupied within.

Immediately after the opening of the Court, the Judge ordered that all the doors in the room be closed and locked, and that no one, not even the officers of the Court, be allowed to enter or leave the room.

The prisoner was placed on the stand this morning and testified in his own behalf. His story was substantially the same as his confession and as outlined by the counsel for the defense to-day.

Fishing Vessel Owners Aroused.

HALIFAX, May 27.—The opinions of Portland fishing vessel owners, republished here, have increased the ill feeling now beginning to manifest itself. A gentleman who thoroughly understands this question said that neither England nor Canada was anxious to enforce the provisions of this "barbarous" treaty of 1818, but the Americans would not agree to appoint a commission to modify it. The United States congress deliberately, of their own free will, went back to its provisions, leaving England and Canada nothing else to do but to vigorously enforce it. The talk of Mr. Dyer, of Portland, to make a test case of registering a fishing vessel and sending her to Nova Scotia to obtain a cargo of fresh herring and distribute them to a fleet of American fishermen to be waiting outside the three mile limit, is nonsense. That would be an act of piracy as far as Canada is concerned, and would be severely punishable under the laws of the United States. Besides that the scheme was tried at Digby, in the case of the Jennie and Julia, and failed.

The Pennsy's Showing for April.

PHILADELPHIA, May 26.—The statement of the business on all lines of the Pennsylvania Railroad east of Pittsburgh and Erie for April, 1886, as compared with the same month in 1885, shows an increase in the net earnings of $47,916. Four months of 1886, as compared with 1885 show an increase in net earnings of $590,669. All lines west of Pittsburgh and Erie for the four months of 1886 show a deficiency in meeting all liabilities of $187,331, being a decreased deficiency, as compared with 1885, of $100,777.

Idle Miners at Pittsburg.

PITTSBURG, May 26.—The majority of the fourth pool miners in that pool say that the prospects of their starting soon are very slight as the operators depend on those of the lower pools for the crafts, and the Cincinnati market is already well stocked. Formerly these mines were kept in operation by a loose trade, but the introduction of natural gas has destroyed that business. John A. Wood, of the Tremont mines, has notified these miners, who are not under contract, that the rate of mining will be 1¾ cents per bushel in the future.

Church Burned.

ELMIRA, N. Y., May 27.—The First M. E. church, on Baldwin St., was discovered to be on fire this morning at 2 o'clock, and despite the efforts of the firemen the magnificent building was totally destroyed. The church was erected in 1876 and was one of the finest church structures in Elmira. The loss on building and furniture is from $70,000 to $75,000.

He Doesn't Crave the Honor.

PHILADELPHIA, May 26.—Rev. Dr. McVickar has received a telegram from Rev. Phillips Brooks, who was recently elected assistant Bishop by the Episcopal Convention held in this city, in which he says he has written a positive and final declination of the office.

A Pertinent Question.

LONDON, May 23.—The Duke and Duchess of Cannaught started last night on a three weeks' pleasure cruise in the royal yacht. Several Radical members of the House of Commons have signified their intention to raise the question who shall pay the expenses of the trip.

Munificent Mr. Carnegie.

PITTSBURG, May 30.—The committee appointed by Allegheny Councils to present to Mr Andrew Carnegie resolutions requesting the transfer to Allegheny City of the free library donation offered by him to the city of Pittsburg waited yesterday morning on Mr. Carnegie. Mr. Carnegie heard the resolutions, read and then submitted to the committee a letter embodying a new proposition on his own part offering to donate to the city of Allegheny a free library and music hall to cost not less than $250 000, the Third Ward Diamond Square to be furnished as a site by the municipality, as promised in the resolutions presented.

Mr. Carnegie said to a reporter that the proposition made in his letter to the Allegheny Committee does not conflict with that of $500,000 for a free library already made by him to the city of Pittsburg, which still stands open for acceptance. He expressed himself as particularly anxious that there should be a suitable music hall in one of the two cities. As President of the American Opera Company he is deeply interested in the success of that organization, and regrets that it has not been possible to secure its appearance in Pittsburg. "I am ready," said he, "to back Theodore Thomas' Orchestra, in its present condition of efficiency against any other orchestra in the world. I should be happy to arrange a match between it and the orchestra led by Richter, in London and if necessary would bear all the expenses of bringing the latter body to the United States and conducting the contest with such men as Liszt and Rubinstein as judges.

Graham, Philadelphia; vice eminent department grand commander, Lee S. Smith, Pittsburg; eminent grand generalissimo, Wm. W. Allen, Philadelphia; eminent grand captain general, T. C. Hipple, Lock Haven; grand prelate, Rev. Wm. H. Platt, Carbondale; grand senior warden, John J Wadsworth, Erie; grand junior warden, Jos. S Wright, Philadelphia; grand treasurer, Mark Richards Muckle, Philadelphia; grand recorder, Charles E. Meyer, Philadelphia; grand standard bearer, E B. Spencer, Philadelphia; grand sword bearer, Samuel Harper, Pittsburg; grand warden, Irving P. Wagner; grand captain of guards, James H. Cadding, Towanda; grand marshal, Edmund Lasson, Philadelphia, and Herald, Joseph H Foster, Philadelphia. The conclave next year will be held in Philadelphia.

Herr Most on Trial.

NEW YORK, May 27.—The trial of Herr Most and his two companions, for misdemeanor, was continued to day. Colonel Fellows made the opening address for the prosecution. He said that the indictments against Most contained two counts, both charging misdemeanor. He described the meeting of anarchists at which the accused made their fiery and seditious addresses. Evidence would be given that the utterances of the accused then were prejudical to public peace. Colonel Fellows adjured the jury to carefully weigh the evidence and by their verdict to furnish a precedent which would intimidate all law breakers and anarchists. He closed with an eloquent encomium upon the liberty and free speech, which is the birthright of American citizens.

Briefs.

CHESTER, May 27.—The Republican county convention to-day, at Media nominated C. W. Mathues, Edgar L. Lyons and Andrew Dalton delegates to the Harrisburg convention, and instructed them for General Beaver for Governor.

CHICAGO, May 27.—Officers of the Rock Island Road state emphatically that there are no men under arrest at their suggestion and that there is no truth in the story of the arrest of two men for the express messenger murder on their road, as printed here.

BURLINGTON, Vt., May 27.—Snow to the depth of several inches is reported in various towns in Northern Vermont and fears are entertained of severe damage to crops by frost.

EDINBURG, May 27.—The Queen arrived at Perth this morning en route to Balmoral. After a brief stay at that place for breakfast she proceeded to Balmoral. Her Majesty traveled all night after leaving Windsor Castle. Notwithstanding the early hour of her arrival at Perth a large crowd had assembled in and around the railway station and enthusiastically cheered Her Majesty.

LONDON, May 27.—The Rev. Mr. Spurgeon publishes an attack on Mr Gladstone's Home Rule bill. The preacher asks, "What has Ulster done to be cast off?" and adds: "The whole scheme is full of dangers and absurdities, as if conceived by a madman. Yet I am sure that Mr. Gladstone believes he is only doing justice and acting for the good of all. I consider that he is making one of those mistakes only made by great and well meaning men."

Deadly Dynamite.

PARIS, May 26.—Dynamite in a factory at Valencio exploded to-day, killing twelve men.

Curious to Think that desks and chairs kill people, but they do. Taken in large quantities office furniture is fatal as yellow fever. We sit and write ourselves away. Sedentary habits produce constipation; that begets dyspepsia; rheumatism and kidney trouble follow in their train, and death ends the chapter. You whose lives are passed over desks and in the confined air of offices ought to keep Dr. Kennedy's "Favorite Remedy" always at hand for the stomach and brain.

Many Persons have catarrh in its first stages who suppose themselves to be troubled with nothing more serious than a severe and stubborn cold in the head. Ely's Cream Balm gives instant relief from colds in the head, and a thorough treatment will cure catarrh. For sale by every druggist in the land

ADDITIONAL LOCAL NEWS.

—In summer as in winter
The young man's purse is low;
It makes no difference if flowers
Be on the ground, or snow;
For fair Clorinda just the same
Delights in love's young dream;
It then was oysters and the ball—
'Tis now vanilla cream!

—The broken down stone wall near the bridge on High street is being rebuilt.

—Policeman Joshua Folk is a constant angler in the clear waters of Spring creek.

—Of all the boycotts prevailing the most reprehensible is the boycott stealing from.

—The Rink was so much crowded last Tuesday night that additional seats had to be provided.

—It is expected that the new Lutheran church in Centre Hall will be dedicated on Sunday, June 13.

—The United Brethren congregation in Millheim seem to be very prosperous and they are now building a new parsonage on Penn street.

—If we were the President and people would ask us so eagerly regarding the probability of a wedding soon we would answer them definitely.

—It is probable that the Gingerich flouring mill at Oak Hall, recently destroyed by fire, will be rebuilt with the most modern improvements.

—Pastor F. L. Bardens, of Martha Furnace, preached at Unionville on Sunday, May 30, at 3 o'clock p. m., filling appointment of Pastor Lanning.

—Mr W. R. Mattern, a youthful, business-like and very agreeable gentleman from Scotia, frequently visits Bellefonte. He spent part of Thursday in town.

—There was an interruption of telephone connection last week between Millheim and Coburn, caused by the lightning, but the connection has been restored.

—Mr. Pius Sneeringer and his wife Eliza, of Tyrone, celebrated their golden wedding on Monday. It is said to have been the first golden wedding celebrated in that town.

—The Houtzdale miners, 2,000 in number, returned to work on Thursday at the old rates. The operators agree to abolish the store order system and guarantee just weights.

—An old building in Millheim, once used as a house of worship by the Evangelical denomination, has been purchased by Mr. Elias Lose, who will convert it into a planing mill.

—Mrs. Vina Richards, daughter of Francis Murphy, the temperance apostle, was married in Pittsburgh, Tuesday evening, May 26, to Mr. Wayland Trask, of the firm of Kidder, Trask & Co., bankers, of New York.

—The residence on Allegheny street, owned and occupied by J. W. Gephart, Esq., is being improved by the substitution of a new porch for the old one. Repairs are also being made to the porch of Mr. Morrison's residence on Spring street.

—Shall we tell you what produces a fine effect? It is a level lawn with the grass a dark green and the shadows of twilight just lengthening over it—part of it in sunlight and part in shadow. In the shaded background are rich-colored peony flowers, the very weight of the blossoms bearing them down until they seem to kiss the grass beneath.

—There can be no more appropriate adornment for a handsome house or grounds than fine floral specimens. We notice two in front of Mr. James Milliken's residence on Linn street. One occupies a position on the porch and the other is located under the trees in the front yard. Both of them attract attention by the variety and beauty of their blossoms.

—Jesse E. Dale, High Sheriff of Clearfield county, must be making it pay rich this year. In an advertisement filling 24 columns of a 32 column supplement in the Clearfield newspapers he advertises for sale, on Friday, June 11, 1886, at 11 o'clock a. m., all the right, title and interest of the Clearfield Bituminous Coal Company in 222 different tracts or parcels of land in that county.

—We are delighted to be able to state that Rev. George Greene, who spent a few weeks in this place and performed the duties of rector of the Episcopal church during the absence of Rev. Jno. R. R. Robinson, has received and accepted a call to become rector of the Church of Faith, Mahanoy City, Schuylkill county, this State. He will begin his duties in Mahanoy City on the 1st of June.

—On Wednesday two venerable trees were removed from the Howard street side of Mr. E. C. Humes' property. The effect is to make quite a difference in the appearance of the residence and to render that immediate vicinity much brighter and more cheerful. We are loath at all times to part with trees, however, as there is a lack rather than a superabundance of them along the streets of the town, and we hope the two mentioned will be replaced by others.

Annual Convention of the W. C. T. U

Every in-coming train, on Tuesday brought score of ladies to Bellefonte. They wended their way from the station to the hall of the Y. M. C. A., where, at 10 o'clock, the third annual convention of the W. C. T. U. began. So far as the attendance at the first session of the convention is concerned, the number is more than twice as large as at either of the previous annual conventions. There must have been at least 150 ladies, besides, several gentlemen, in the room that morning. Moreover, these ladies are among the most prominent and intelligent in the county and their influence in the cause they advocate is incalculable.

Mrs. A. S. Valentine, of this place, conducted the devotional exercises, after which Mrs. J. P. Harris, the President, called the convention to order and business was commenced. The Secretary, Mrs Evan Blanchard, called the roll and read the minutes.

The delegates were given their proper seats for the remainder of the convention and some committees appointed.

Mrs. J. P. Harris gave numerous valuable and timely suggestions to regulate the proceedings of the work of the convention and the general work of temperance in the county

In addition to the music by the choir, Mr. M. F. Bingham rendered one or two solos in pleasing style.

At this juncture, the most interesting and able paper of the morning was read by Miss M. Owen on the "Signs of the Times." We expect to publish this paper in a future issue. The reports of several of the county unions were given by their respective representatives, all showing progress. Others were given in the afternoon. When this business was concluded the hour for adjournment had arrived and all the visiting delegates as well as many persons from town repaired to the dining room, where a choice lunch of cold meats, cakes, pickles, hot coffee, etc., was partaken of with a relish which showed that the serious and earnest deliberations of the previous two hours had not impaired their appetites.

NOTES.

The afternoon session began at 1.30 o'clock.

The ladies know how to manage business meetings on systematic principles.

A large and beautiful bouquet which ornamented the President's desk was the artistic work of Mrs. James Mitchel.

Grand Lectures at the Rink.

The W. C. T. U., in securing the presence at the rink of such an excellent and entertaining lecturer as Mr. D. H. Burwell, who is known as "the boy orator," have catered not only to the advancing moral tone of the town, but also to all those who appreciate intellectual treats. We went to the rink about nine o'clock, Wednesday evening, and found that several hundred people had assembled, and throughout the large building absolute silence reigned, broken only by the voice of the orator. He speaks in tones that are remarkably sweet and clear, pervading even the furthest recesses of the largest room though seldom rising to the declamatory pitch. His voice is pleasant to listen to, even though the speaker may not be seen, but a view of the orator enhances the effect, as he is decidedly good looking and his gestures are expressive and graceful.

We differ from the statement made, that D. H. Burwell is a boy. Only a few years ago he was a boy, and the title, "the boy orator," quite properly attaches to him yet. But he is now a man fully developed, physically, and already a fine orator, and with unusually bright prospects before him of maturing more fully the intellectual powers of which he is now possessed in a high degree. He is of average height, and his countenance is flushed with a bright, healthful glow; his manner is attractive and winning; his articulation clear and distinct. His style is scholarly and he speaks fluently, never hesitating for the proper word, while all he says is enriched by a beauty and aptness of expression and an abundance of humorous or pathetic illustrations which move to tears or laughter at will.

A young man accompanies him to lead the singing and sometimes he renders a solo. Mr. Burwell is also a good singer, so between them they can manage the music.

After the lecture was ended Wednesday night, Mr. Burwell went all around the room and shook hands with every man and boy in the building and with some of the ladies. A large number pressed forward to sign the pledge.

Lost in the Woods.

A correspondent of the Huntingdon Daily News, writing from Miller township, that county, says that James Anderson, an old and crippled man, requiring two crutches to enable him to walk, lost his way between Rocky Ridge and Stone Mountain and wandered about for several days without food. Becoming exhausted he sank down and gave himself up to die in the woods near where the Weaver saw mill used to stand, where he was found on last Sunday morning by Mr. Harry Winters in an unconscious state. He procured help and had the unfortunate old man removed to one of the saw mill houses, where he was recuscitated and given refreshments. His mind was in such a condition that he could give no account of how he had spent his time on the mountain. It had been eight days from the time that he was last seen until he was found by Mr. Winters, and during that time we have had several violent rain and hail storms, to all of which he was exposed in his helpless condition. The wonder to us is that he was not dead when found. He is in a critical condition and it is feared that if he does recover physically his mind will be absent. His condition is truly a deplorable one, and well calculated to enlist the sympathy of everybody.

Neighborhood News.

Willie Reed, a son of Postmaster Reed of Tyrone, met with a painful accident on Tuesday evening, the 25th of May. He was playing with some other boys on the steps of the footway under the railroad on Hill street, and fell striking the back of his head on one of the stone steps cutting it open. He was picked up and carried home unconscious and remained in that condition until Friday noon when he showed some signs of returning senses. The injury while serious is not considered by the doctor as dangerous.

The tenth annual commencement of the Altoona High school will occur in that city this evening.

The Lock Haven Express is increasing in size and now comes to us with a columns more reading matter on each page than it formerly contained. In is now the largest daily paper in Lock Haven.

Wheat Ruined by the Weevil.

The destruction of wheat by the weevil is very extensive and many farmers will suffer by it. Dr. Thos. S Christ, of Lemont, informs us that he turned his cattle into a twenty-five acre wheat field, the other day, expecting to allow them to get the benefit of the wheat, which will not mature, and then he will resow the field and attempt to raise another crop. Only two good fields of wheat exist in that section, one of them belonging to Moses Thompson and another to Mr. Moore, a tenant of Mr. Thompson. All the rest is ruined.

A Handsome Residence on Fire.

The handsome frame residence on East Curtin street, owned and occupied by Mr. Frank Bible and family, caught fire at noon Friday. The fire probably originated from a spark from the chimney as it started in the shingles, just above the porch roof. It was discovered before gaining much headway and was quickly extinguished by willing hands carrying buckets of water to throw upon it. Its early discovery was a great good fortune, as it is difficult to fight fire on that elevated part of the town. As it is, the loss will not exceed $25 or $50.

—General Beaver came home from Pittsburg this morning. A reporter for the Pittsburg Dispatch attempted to interview the General on politics, and while the reporter said that the General "is a remarkably genial gentleman, and always loaded with nice, pleasant topics of conversation," he was obliged to confess that "when it comes to sounding the General on political questions for publication he is about the hardest man to do business with in the whole country." When the reporter asked him: "What do you think of the political situation in Pennsylvania, General?" he is said to have answered: "I'll tell you what to do. See me some time next October, and I will be able to tell you all about it."

—From the Altoona Times we learn that the committee appointed to revise the rules of Pennsylvania Republican ended its session at the Logan House about two o'clock Wednesday morning, May 26, after agreeing to report Col Hastings' plan to the State Convention. The absent members of the Committee sent word that they could not be present, so the discussion was made without their views being obtained. The plan will no doubt be favorably received by counties having a large Republican vote, and may be resisted by minority counties that will be reduced in representation in Judicial, Senatorial, Congressional and State Conventions. The plan looks like a fair one.

—The word month is not likely soon to be defined in its statutory sense by national enactment, though a bill with that end in view had been introduced by Senator Platt. In England a legal month is the lunar month of 28 days. This was the common law interpretation, but Georgia is the only State which now adheres to that interpretation; all other States go by the calendar. As the question has never been raised in the courts, the Judiciary Committee concluded that there was no call for any legislation on the subject, and will report the bill adversely.

—The game of base ball on the Fair ground at four o'clock Saturday afternoon between the State College nine and a picked up nine from Bellefonte is conceded to have been the most exciting and interesting which has occurred in Bellefonte for years. About three hundred people were in attendance. The Bellefonte nine showed themselves to be far better players than the College boys, but they had the Umpire (an individual named Bartley) to play against and although in four or five innings the College boys received nothing but goose eggs the Umpire at length succeeded in giving them 6 runs to 5 credited to Bellefonte.

Death of Edward A. Nolan.

The earthly life of Edward A. Nolan ended Saturday morning at 7 o'clock. For weeks past a gradual decline had been noticed in his physical condition and as he lay in his home at Snow Shoe, suffering with illness nigh unto death, many were the solicitous and sympathetic inquiries of friends who had known him in strong and buoyant youth and manhood. We were not so well acquainted with deceased as many persons in Bellefonte and throughout the county, but have heard so much in his praise from others that we can state with assurance that few persons in the county were more well known or popular than Edward A. Nolan.

He was born on the 28th of October, 1844, making his age 41 years, 7 months and 1 day. During more than 23 years he was employed on the Bellefonte and Snow Shoe railroad and was widely known and justly esteemed for noble qualities of mind and heart. He was often known to put himself to great inconvenience to aid those who, in traveling or in other circumstances, required his aid. He was injured in the great accident which occurred on the Snow Shoe railroad about eight years ago, and had never fully recovered from the injuries received at that time. He became proprietor of the Mountain House at Snow Shoe and during the five or six years in which he presided over the affairs of the hotel his admirable qualities made him a popular host.

Monday morning he was buried in the Catholic cemetery of this place. Because of the absence in Europe of Father McIlheny, his pastor, no special services were held at Snow Shoe. When the large funeral party with the corpse arrived in Bellefonte at 8 25 a. m. the remains were taken to the church here and after brief services they were conveyed to the city of the dead at the eastern end of Bishop street.

Those who served as pall-bearers were W. A. Lathrop, Superintendent of the Lehigh Mining Company, Dr. Thompson and Messrs. Thomas McCann, Jacob Rapp, Henry Redding and E. Ewing. Twelve special friends of deceased took charge of the services here under the superintendance of Mr. Henry Harris, the undertaker. The casket was very elegant with rich silver handles and the name of deceased engraved on the silver plate. Floral offerings rested on the coffin lid. Friends were permitted to obtain a last look at deceased before they were consigned to the tomb. He looked peaceful in death and one could well believe that the prayers for the repose of his soul were already answered.

A wife and two children survive and are now plunged in grief at the stroke of afflictive Providence. But they may well have reason to look up through their blinding tears within the pearly gates where awaits them a reunion never to be broken.

—The tennis tourny on Saturday morning between the State College players and those of Bellefonte was witnessed by a hundred or more spectators including many attractive young ladies. It is a game involving quick action and affords opportunity for the opposing players to display much grace of movement.

I Was troubled with chronic catarrh and gathering in the head, was very deaf at times, had discharges from my ears, and was unable to breathe through my nose. Before the second bottle of Ely's Cream Balm was exhausted I was cured, and to-day enjoy sound health.—C. J. Corbin, 923 Chestnut St., Field Manager Philadelphia Pub. House, Pa.

I am on my second bottle of Ely's Cream Balm, being a sufferer from catarrh since I was a child, but with this medicine I am being cured.—Wm. L. Dayton, Brooklyn.

—Mr. George Agold, a hardware merchant of Williamsport, died on Thursday morning. He was a nephew of our fellow-townsman, Mr. Nicholas Bauer, who, with his son, Vincent, and perhaps other members of the family, were present at the funeral. Deceased was a member of the Roman Catholic church and was an excellent young man.

There Must be an Open Road between the food we eat and the substance of which our bodies are composed. If the road is clogged or closed we sicken, faint and die. This road is made up of the organs of digestion or assimilation. Of these the stomach and liver are chief. Most people have had more or less experience of the horrors of constipation. Prevent it and all its fearful sequences by using Dr. Kennedy's "Favorite Remedy." It is the first step that costs.

—The Philipsburg people thought as highly of D. H. Burwell, "the boy orator," as Bellefonters do. He lectured only once in that place and the Ledger remarks that had he lectured another night he could have crowded the opera house at $1 per head.

—The graduating exercises of the Albany Law School occurred on the 20th of May. We announced the date a week or more ago, but neglected to notice the successful event after it occurred. It was the more notable because a native of Centre county, Mr Will E. Gray, was one of the graduates His oration was on the subject. "The Language we Speak," and as everything Mr. Gray attempts to do is highly successful, we are sure the oration was a fine one.

AN EXTRAORDINARY OFFER.

To All Wanting Employment.

We want Live, Energetic and Capable Agents in every county in the United States and Canada, to sell a patent article of great merit, on its merits. An article having a large sale, paying over 100 per cent profit, having no competition, and on which the agent is protected in the exclusive sale by a deed given for each and every county he may secure from us. With all these advantages to our agents and the fact that it is an article that can be sold to every householder, it might not be necessary to make an "extraordinary offer" to secure good agents at once, but we have concluded to make it to show, not only our confidence in the merits of our invention, but in its salability by any agent that will handle it with energy. Our agents now at work are making from $150 to $600 a month clear and this fact makes it safe for us to make our offer to all who are out of employment. Any agent that will give our business a thirty days' trial and fail to clear at least $100 in this time, above all expenses, can return all goods unsold to us and we will refund the money paid for them. Any agent or general agent who would like ten or more counties and work them through sub-agents for ninety days and fail to clear at least $750 above all expenses, can return all unsold and get their money back. No other employer of agents ever dared to make such offers, nor would we if we did not know that we have agents now making more than double the amount we guaranteed; and but two sales a day would give a profit of over $125 a month, and that one of our agents took eighteen orders in one day. Our large descriptive circulars explain our offer fully, and these we wish to send to everyone out of employment who will send us three one cent stamps for postage. Send at once and secure the agency in time for the boom, and go to work on the terms named in our extraordinary offer. We would like to have the address of all the agents, sewing machine solicitors and carpenters in the country, and ask any reader of this paper who reads this offer, to send us at once the name and address of all such they know. Address at once, or you will lose the best chance ever offered to those out of employment to make money. Renner Manufacturing Co., 116 Smithfield St., Pittsburg, Pa.

LIKE HIS FATHER,

He Was Afflicted With Stone in the Bladder.

Mr. S. W. Hicks, of Pleasant Valley, Duchess County, N. Y., the son of Mr. E. S Hicks, whose name may have appeared in this journal in connection with an article similar to this, was, like his father, afflicted with Stone in the Bladder only that his case was more serious than his father's. The father advised his son to write to Dr David Kennedy, of Rondout, N. Y., who, he said would tell him what to do. Dr. Kennedy replied suggesting the use of KENNEDY'S FAVORITE REMEDY, which had worked so successfully in father's case. Mr. Hicks, who had been assured by the local physicians that they could do nothing more for him, tried FAVORITE REMEDY After two weeks' use of it he passed a stone ¾ of an inch long and of the thickness of a pipe stem since then he has had no symptoms of a return of the trouble. Here is a sick man healed. What better results could have been expected? What greater benefit could medical science confer? The end was gained, that is surely enough. Dr. Kennedy assures the public, by a reputation which he cannot afford to imperil, that the FAVORITE REMEDY does invigorate the blood, cures liver kidney and bladder complaints, as well as all those diseases and weaknesses peculiar to females.

Local Department.

—Farewell to May.

—This is leafy June.

—Bass fishing began Tuesday.

—Saturday and Sunday were lovely.

—The June moon was new Wednesday morning.

—The frisky cucumber is here to double you up.

—The countenance of the ice dealer wears a happy smile.

—Hundreds of rose bushes are now covered with blossoms.

—The school board will meet next Monday evening for reorganization.

—The loveliest rose of the season thus far is blooming in Mr. J. V. Thomas' yard.

—A baby daughter arrived Monday to grace the handsome home of John Ardell, Jr.

—Mr. Joseph Fox is erecting a fine brick residence at the east extremity of Bishop street.

—Mr. D. I. Parsons now figures before the astonished Bellefonte public in the capacity of an auctioneer.

—A meeting of Bellefonters who adhere to the Disciple faith was held in this place Sunday afternoon.

—J. Zeigler was at market Saturday morning with a fine collection of geraniums, pansies and daisies.

—This will be a dull week in some respects, as not even the temperance people have any meetings on hand.

—The Goldsmith Brothers, we are pleased to hear, are enjoying a splendid business at their large store in Scranton, Pa.

—Mr. S. A. Stover, the marble man, was slightly hurt on Wednesday by being thrown from his wagon near Reynolds' mill.

—Ten days in the county jail was the sentence imposed on two hotel keepers Wednesday morning for violation of the liquor law.

—The application of William S. Musser, of Millheim, for tavern license, held over from April court until June, was granted Wednesday morning.

—It is probable that two young but ambitious limbs of the law will take advantage of argument court this week by seeking admission to practice.

—The Bellefonte and Buffalo Run railroad is now invading Coalville, and the people of that place are talking of celebrating the event with a jubilee.

—The sewer at the corner of Bishop and Allegheny streets is still kept open to the detriment of travel. It would be well to finish this work as soon as possible.

—Mr. John Emery (colored) recently porter at the Bush House and now filling a similar position in the Wyoming House, Scranton, is visiting at his home in this place.

—A conference of Y. M. C. A. secretaries of the United States and Canada convened in Harrisburg, Pa., on Tuesday. Mr. C. E. Schaeffer, of this place, is in attendance.

—There will be a festival in Waddle's school house, Buffalo Run, next Saturday evening, June 5. Ice cream, cake, etc., (and probably strawberries) will be served. All are invited.

—The secretaries' conference of the Young Men's Christian Associations of the United States and British Provinces, which began in Harrisburg at 7:30 p. m. Tuesday will continue until Sunday evening.

—The work of laying the rails on the Buffalo Run railroad was commenced this morning. Mr. Philip Collins was on hand and about 25 men were at work on this end of the road. This looks like business.

—A change went into effect on the Bellefonte and Lemont Railroad on Monday morning. The trains now leave Bellefonte at 6 a. m. and 1.15 p. m. instead of 5.45 and 1 as formerly. Each train departs 15 minutes later than it did.

—Mr. Ed. Garman is sending out some very neat invitations to ladies who are visiting in town, requesting them to include the store of D. Garman & Son when they survey the attractions of this beautiful borough. Ed. has many very handsome goods and he is not bad looking himself.

—The Hollidaysburg Standard is authority for the statement that Mr. Philip Collins, the railroad contractor, who recently bought a farm near Bellefonte, contemplates the erection of a furnace on his new purchase.—Altoona Times. Indeed! The REPUBLICAN said that a month ago.

—Jacob Rhinefelt, a well known [illegible] of Philipsburg, died in that [illegible]nday night, of quinsy. He [illegible] on Thursday, making his [illegible]den. He had charge of [illegible]ted with the Potter [illegible]g. A wife and [illegible]. His remains [illegible]fonte at 10.35 [illegible]r interment.

THE NATION'S DEAD.

A Greatful People Do Honor to Those Who Sleep in Heroes' Graves.

Flowers, Eloquence and Music.

On Saturday morn the bright sunshine lingered lovingly in the spangled dewdrop ere it kissed it away forever. In a cloudless sky the bright orb of day sailed triumphant and the air was vocal with the melody of countless winged songsters. Nature united with a grateful people in honoring the memories of those who fell in the grand struggle for human liberties. It can be truthfully said that no soldier who gave his life for the heritage of Freedom in the Rebellion, or who has since died, now lies unhonored or unsung, for all were remembered.

On Saturday morning adults and children brought the brightest flowers of Spring, from the conservatory, garden and wildwood to the rooms of Gregg Post, and there delicate and skilled fingers fashioned them with exquisite taste into crosses, wreaths, and other appropriate devices. Detachments of veteran soldiers were commissioned during the morning to decorate graves of soldiers lying in some of the cemeteries of the borough and vicinity, the principal ceremony being reserved for Union cemetery at two o'clock p. m. By that hour all were in readiness to form in parade, and the members of Company B, N. G., were the first to appear. They issued from Armory Hall, 34 in number and marched up High street to take position, being joined by a few others, making their entire number about 38. A few minutes later 42 of the war-scarred veterans of Gregg Post, G. A. R., also proceeded up High street. They bore with them a profusion of flowers, including a mammoth cross, about 12 feet high. Next, the Zion band of 15 pieces was heard and marched to the Logan Hose house to conduct the fire laddies into position. They marched along Spring to High street, 29 strong, and took their place in the parade. In the order given above, the parade started about 3 o'clock, marching over the prescribed route—down High street to Spring; Spring to Bishop; Bishop to Allegheny; Allegheny to Howard; up Howard to Union cemetery. Twenty or thirty little girls in the Monticola hack wagon added beauty to what was in all respects a very fine parade.

In Union Cemetery the line of parade formed into a hollow square, inside of which were those who were to take special part in the services. Commander John Noll read an address, after which a dirge was rendered by the Zion band. The post chaplain, Rev. J. A. Woodcock, prayed eloquently, and a beautiful Memorial Hymn was rendered by a choir of male voices, including Prof. Bierly and Messrs. Schaeffer, Shuey, Lukenbach and Meyer.

Within the hollow square are four graves, the streamers upon which read as follows: "James Armor, war of 1812, Pa. Vol.," "Benner K. Armor, Pa. Militia Vol.," "James M. Ward, 46th Regt. Pa. Vol.," "William Schrock, Pa. Vol. Militia." These graves were decorated in the order named, by Col. D. S. Keller, Dr. Geo. Harris, R. C. Irwin and Mr. James Rankin. As the wreaths were placed upon the mounds which mark the resting places of the honored dead an appropriate memorial service was repeated, different in each instance. Nothing could excel this portion of the service in beauty and sublimity. This was followed by another solemn dirge by the band, after which Rev. Chas. T. Steck read a poem, in a style so impressive as to very generally arrest the attention of spectators. The poem is the gentleman's own production and pays special homage to the unrecognized soldier, whose heroism was in many instances of the highest type.

The children offered their handsome bouquets to the veterans, while the choir rendered that inspired composition, "Cover them over with beautiful flowers," and the veterans, with their bright offerings of love's affection, went to each grave and reverently placed the flowers thereon. Company B, N. G., gave a true military air to the ceremony by firing three times, with perfect precision, over the four special graves. After the benediction, the line of march was retraced to town and the assemblage of people separated.

The services were fittingly concluded in Humes' Hall on Saturday evening with an ORATION DELIVERED BY THOS. H. MURRAY, of Clearfield. A choir of cultured singers was present. It was composed of Miss Mary Bradley, Mrs. Geo. Bible, Mr C. E. Schaeffer and J. C. Meyer, Esq, Miss Ohnmacht at the organ. Commander John Noll, Chaplain Woodcock, Past Commander Keller and Mr. Murray, the orator, occupied the platform. After music by the choir and an invocation by the chaplain, Col. Keller introduced the orator. He delivered one of the most polished and beautiful memorial orations ever heard in Bellefonte. His manner is quiet and undemonstrative. He speaks with a smooth and charming flow of the choicest language, and the subject matter of his address was excellent.

The two most interesting places, he said, to visit are the spot where one was born and that where lie the remains of a dear friend. In the course of his remarks he reminded the soldiers that there are two greater battles for them to fight than those of the rebellion. One he said is the contest against intemperance. The sword which to slay the foe, intemperance, is now raised, and the longer the blow is delayed the more severe it will be. Another foe to fight is corruption in public service. He urged them by their ballots to strive to make the public service more pure. His oration did not last more than forty minutes and the interested audience could have listened much longer.

OTHER DECORATION EXERCISES.

During Saturday morning Messrs. David Glenn, R. A. Laird and Amos Garbrick visited the Zion cemetery, being taken there in a spring wagon by Mr. Stover. Comrade D. C. Walters went to the cemeteries at Snydertown and Hublersburg.

Messrs. Samuel Shaffer and David Bartley gave their attention to the soldiers' graves in the Catholic and Friends' cemeteries, decorating all of them.

The exercises at Milesburg were unusually impressive and exercises were also conducted at Pleasant Gap.

The School House Question.

On another page of this paper is a communication on the school house question. We are pleased that a citizen has written on this subject, as it is much talked about, and an exchange of opinion may result in good. We think, too, that all communications should be—as this one is—entirely free from personality or abuse. We believe as does our correspondent, that the school board whatever they decide upon, are actuated by the very best impulses. We do not see, with the entire confidence that does our correspondent, that the course of empire, so far as Bellefonte is concerned, will necessarily take its way northward. The elevated ground in the northern part of the borough is delightful for location, but we also believe that the population west and south will increase almost as fast. This conviction is increased by walks out East Bishop street, and along Willow Bank street, where the number of new houses seem to equal those in any other part of the town. We say that if a building can be erected at the same cost in any other part of the town it should be placed there, but if an additional cost is necessary then a new element is thrown into the question which must be wisely dealt with. But suppose some wealthy citizen in either the South or West ward donates a few acres of ground for school purposes. When we hear of the princely munificence of Andrew Carnegie in Pittsburgh and of some gentlemen in Clearfield county, we wonder why it is there is no citizen in Bellefonte willing to imitate their liberality at least on a small scale.

In regard to the sort of a building, we believe that it should be very substantial and strong, and built in the most approved plan with every advantage as to ventilation. But if it is made neat and attractive that is sufficient without adding to it costly elaborate architectural beauty or embellishment. Let us hear from some other interested citizen.

Untonville Items.

The fruit, grass and flowers are about a week in advance of what they usually are at this time of year, and for the most part are looking very promising.

This new birth in vegetation has seemed to inspire some of the young folks in in this locality with a desire for a new life—that of double "blessedness. On the 20th inst. two weddings occurred, one at Mr. Brugger's, which has already been reported, and the other two miles up the valley—Miss Olie Holt to Mr. Thomas Irwin. Happy may be their journey upon the unknown sea of the future. We understand Rev. Gnyer officiated at both weddings, but whether he indulged at both suppers we are not advised.

Dr. Calder, of Harrisburg, State lecturer of the "Patrons of Husbandry," addressed a meeting of farmers and others in the Presbyterian church on the evening of the 26th.

The Post of this place, accompanied by other citizens, visited the different grave yards and cemeteries in the neighborhood and had decorative ceremonies on Decoration day, and in the evening held a campfire and Memorial services in the church, which was attended by a house full of interested spectators. On the same afternoon and evening an ice cream festival was held at the Union hotel under the auspices of the Baptist church, to which the proceeds were given.

Wm. Iddings has built a large addition to the rear of his house on Walnut street.

Rev. Laning's new house is nearly completed and presents a fine appearance.

L. B. Bathurst is having a finishing coat of paint put on his new house on Main St., which gives it a conspicuous appearance.

The base ball craze has reached this place at last and the boys and young men have become quite enthusiastic over it for the last few days. J. CLAY.

—The large hotel building at Eagleville, this county, owned by A. B. Freeman, of Lock Haven and occupied by a man named Gorsuch, was destroyed by fire early Tuesday morning. The household goods and family clothing were consumed, the family barely escaping with their lives. Loss, $2,000; insurance small. The building had but recently been erected on the site of one burned less than a year ago. Origin of the fire unknown.

Base Ball in Bellefonte.

For more than a year the subject of base ball has hardly been discussed at all in Bellefonte, but the game on Memorial day has aroused a very great interest. It was plainly shown in the game on that day that Bellefonte has now as excellent material for a base ball nine as can be found in the country, and if it is here, why not make use of it?

Practice is the only thing required to acquire a high degree of excellence and a sufficient number of base ball enthusiasts are now practicing daily. The hack will leave the Diamond at 6 o'clock this evening to carry them to the Fair ground for that purpose. It is but natural that the players should expect the people of Bellefonte to do as the people of other towns are accustomed to do, viz., to aid them in whatever preparation they make. For instance, it costs to prepare grounds and keep them in repair. Uniforms also cost something. This is much less expense than is involved in most other places where players are paid. In almost every instance in the Bellefonte nine, we doubt not, love of the sport alone will be sufficient to keep up the interest of the players. But give them all the help you can.

Another game is to be played with the State College nine on Saturday afternoon, June 12. In the recent game the Bellefonte nine played well without the advantage of any practice. They will do still better next time.

Howard Items.

Over one thousand people attended decoration services on Memorial day. The ladies of the vicinity furnished a free dinner to the public on the occasion.

Rev. Owen Hicks, formerly pastor of the M. E. Church at this place, but now pastor at Duncansville, Blair county, Pa., delivered an able discourse in the new Evangelical church on Saturday evening last to an overflowing congregation.

The new Evangelical church building was dedicated on Sunday last. Rev. Stanford of Cleveland, Ohio, delivered the dedicatory sermon. Over $1,100 was raised on the occasion and the new association starts out clear of debt. The building has a seating capacity of 400 and cost $2,000.

The public reception given to the Rev. Owen Hicks and lady, of Duncansville, Blair county, Pa., formerly pastor of the M. E church at this place, in the G. A. R. Hall on the evening of May 28, was one of the largest social gatherings ever took place here. All of the prominent families of the town, irrespective of denominational division, were present to welcome them as friends.

The Chief Mugwump of this place, one of Chairman Johnston's appointees, and who was going to make an open confession, received a sudden and severe attack of Hicksism, which prevented the confession being made. Dr. Burchard is also under the weather with the same disease.

Resolutions of Thanks.

WHEREAS, It has pleased Almighty God to favor us with his sunshine and placed in the hearts of the patriotic people to honor our fallen heroes on this our annual Memorial Day; and,

WHEREAS, The good people of this vicinity saw fit to grace this Grove Brothers Post, No 262, G. A. R., and its visiting comrades with a sumptuous banquet and with their presence; therefore, be it

Resolved, 1*st*., That our thanks are heartily tendered Comrades Hicks and Gross, and to Revs. Oliphant and Messenger for their eloquent and patriotic orations at Jacksonville and Howard, on this day, and "hope their shadows may never grow less."

2*d*, That our thanks are likewise tendered to the patriotic and loyal ladies for their kindness and activity manifested in making this lovely day one long to be remembered by those present and our desire is that they may ever "support the union to a man."

3*d*, Our thanks are also tendered to the Howard Cornet Band and to Prof. Weiricks Glee Club for the very excellent instrumental and local music furnished on this occasion.

H. C. HOLTER, Post Commander,
R. V. BUTLER, Adjutant.

Reward Offered for Recovery of a Horse.

Chief of Police H. H. Montgomery, received the following notice per telephone:

"A reward of $50 is offered for the recovery of a horse stolen Monday from my stable in Logan township, Huntingdon county. The animal is a bright bay, four years old. The left hind foot is white above pasture with dark spots above hoofs. The other hind foot has white spots on pasture. On the left side of lower jaw is a hard lump. Heavy, but short mane and foretop. The bridle and wagon saddle were also stolen.

GEO. B. WAKEFIELD."

Memorial Sermon in Milesburg.

A large congregation, including the pastor and congregation of the Presbyterian Church, gathered in the Baptist Church of Milesburg to listen to the memorial sermon of the Dr. Geo. L. Potter Post G. A. R. by the pastor, Rev. M. B. Laning.

The text was from I Tim. 6:12, "Fight the good fight of faith". Subject, "Our Spiritual warfare." The Baptist Church appreciates the Christian courtesy of the Presbyterian pastor and people, in omitting their meeting to worship with them.

Personal Pencilings.

G. S. Garth, of Millhall, has been granted a patent for a straw cutter.

Mrs. Emmons delivered a temperance lecture in the rink Sunday evening.

Miss Kate Schnell bade her relatives here farewell on Monday and departed for her home.

E. C. Humes removed another tree from in front of his property on Thursday afternoon.

Mrs. Uriah Spangler, of Newton, Kansas, is visiting relatives in Penns and Brush valleys.

Dr. Thos. R. Hayes will start for home about the 8th of June, expecting to reach here about the 16th.

W. D. Crosby, Esq., of Philipsburg, delivered the Memorial day oration in that place Saturday.

Major H. H. Benner spent Memorial day in Philipsburg, aiding the orator of the day to deliver his address.

Mr John C. Miller spent Sunday in the ancient town of Huntingdon where he has many aunts, uncles and cousins.

Will Achenbach has just been taking a trip from Williamsport to Troy and return, going most of the distance on his bicycle.

Charley Tripple, of Adams Express office, is visiting "down the valley," his place being temporarily filled by Mr. Barlett.

Mrs. Milton Furey and child, of this place, departed Friday morning to Lock Haven, where they spent Sunday with relatives.

Dr. B. H. Detwiler, of Williamsport, is in California and his daughters—two charming young ladies—are visiting relatives here.

Miss Ida Gerberich, the accomplished daughter of C. T. Gerberich, has returned home after a prolonged visit in Sunbury and Selinsgrove.

Dr. T. R. Hayes still lingers in Pasadena, Cal., but he expects to hasten home in a few days to again become a resident of Bellefonte.

We notice that Rev. Owen Hicks, recently of Howard, and now living in Claysburg, Blair county, is to lecture in the latter place on Saturday, June 5.

Mrs. Emmons, who was an attendant at the W. C. T. U. county convention on Thursday, lectured in the Evangelical church, Millheim, Friday evening.

Rev. M. B. Laning will preach a sermon for the Dr. Geo. L. Potter Post, G. A. R., in the Baptish church at Milesburg on Sunday, May 30, at 10.30 o'clock a. m.

Mrs. Susan E. McKinney has been appointed passenger and freight agent at Port Matilda, vice W. W. McKinney, deceased. She will begin her duties June 1.

Miss Kate Schnell, formerly of this place, is again in Bellefonte, visiting her numerous relatives and friends here. She is yearly becoming more charming than ever.

Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Montgomery departed on Monday for Philadelphia where Mrs. M. expects to remain several weeks, Mr. Montgomery returning in a few days.

Master Fred Sourbeck, son of Jno. D. Sourbeck, has been spending the past few days visiting relatives in Pittsburg and Youngstown. He will remain away about two weeks.

Gen. Wm. H. Blair, who is now with the Board of Visitors to West Point Military Academy, will decorate Gen. McClellan's grave with a bouquet of Centre County flowers before he returns home.

Mr. W. E Gray was in Bellefonte Friday, having returned from Albany Law School to his home in this county last week. He looks as well as could be expected after a Winter spent in close application to study.

Mr. Jerome Yohey, a pleasant young gentlemen and a first rate miller employed with Gerberich, Hale & Co., departed on Saturday for Missouri to remain for some time. His object is to learn the latest and most approved method of milling.

Miss Jennie Morrison has returned to Bellefonte, her school term in Philipsburg having been completed. Wherever Miss Jennie has taught she has won golden opinions and the people of Philipsburg are anxious for her to teach another year in that place.

Mr. Irvin Speer, of this place, who has been in Williamsport, Pa., and Cleveland, Ohio, for three months past, is again at home. We understand that he intends to remain only a week, however, as he has a position on the railroad between Cleveland and Pittsburg.

Mr. Samuel Musser, of B. F. Stover's meat market, and who lives on Bishop street, rejoices over an accession to his family which arrived on Memorial day. The little stranger—a charming daughter—now has the honor of being the prettiest little miss on that thoroughfare.

Miss Grove, the music instructor of State College, will take part in the concert to be given in this place on the evening of the 15th inst. Her voice is a pure and delightful contralto, and scores of music lovers in this place are so anxious to hear her that they can scarcely wait until the evening of the concert.

Personal Pencilings.

Mr. Charles Valentine is again in Bellefonte after quite an extended absence.

Mrs. Cameron Burnside, of Howard, was a visitor in Bellefonte Wednesday morning.

Mr. James Mateer, recently foreman of this office, departed on Monday for Youngstown, Ohio, where he has secured a good situation.

He spoke also at Fairview cemetery. A large number of citizens of those sections were in attendance and gave the closest attention to the services.

At 1 30 p. m. the Post, citizens and members of the Sunday-schools of the vicinity proceeded to the cemetery, where, after the services, Rev. A. W. Guyer of Milesburg, made an excellent and able address. The graves (21) were then strewn with flowers, and the line of march was taken for Milesburg, where, at 4 p. m., sharp, the Post formed in front of their room and were at once joined by Lodge 410 I. O. O. F., at whose head was the Milesburg Cornet Band. The order of march was: The Milesburg Cornet Band, I. O. O. F. Eagle Cornet band and Post 261. Marching up Main street above the Methodist church, a countermarch was made. The Methodist Sunday-school (a very large one) appeared and took the place in line between the Odd Fellows and the Post, and thus proceeded to the cemetery east of the town, where a square was formed with four graves in the centre. The ceremonies as laid down by the order were then conducted by Past Commander Austin Curtin, Chaplain Wilson, S. V. C. Watson Comrades Young and Joseph A. Green' after which the Rev. Dr. Monroe, of Bellefonte, delivered a beautiful and appropriate address. The procession then reformed and strewed flowers over the graves (30) and then marched up town and was dismissed.

The Woman's Relief Corps of the Post furnished an excellent lunch for dinner and supper in the Post room. It was enjoyed very much and many thanks are due to them for the courtesy. The day was well observed. The stores were all closed and a very large number of people were in attendance. The best of order prevailed, and much interest was manifested wherever services were held by the Post. Sixty-seven graves in all were decorated.

On Sunday, the 30th, a Union service was held in the Baptist church to hear a sermon preached to the Post. All the other churches gave up their services and attended. A large number of the Post and some of 95 were present. Rev. Mr. Laning, of the Baptist church, preached from 1st Timothy, 6th chapter, part of 12th verse, a fine sermon appropriate to the occasion. Rev. Mr. Wright, of the Presbyterian church, offered prayer and pronounced the benediction.

—James L. Hamill was admitted to practice in the several courts of Centre county, on Tuesday morning, June 1st, at a special court held by Judge Furst. Mr. Hamill read law in the office of Judge Furst for about a year, and then went to Ann Arbor, Mich., where he finished his legal studies. He passed an examination there before the judges of the Supreme Court of Michigan and upon that standing was admitted to the bar of this county. Mr. Hamill will spend a month at his country residence before taking up his abode with us. After the first of July he can be found at the office of Judge Furst, where he will no doubt receive a liberal share of the patronage of his many friends when they have need of legal assistance. Mr. Hamill is a young man of far more than ordinary mental attainments, has given much time and labor to the work of perfecting himself in his chosen profession and will be an honor to the Bar of Centre county, long noted for the many illustrious names upon its roll. We extend our congratulations to the young man and wish him abundant success in the future.

—One of the losses by the destruction of the Curtin House at Milesburg by fire was furniture and wearing apparel belonging to Mr. W. J. Rishel. The loss exceeded three hundred dollars. In the narration of the details of the fire this item was overlooked.
